to Stamp Out Big Whisky Smuggling and Marketing Conspiracy—Sensational Results Expected—Men All Over Country Indicted in Savannah—Include Widely Known Men Who Have Been Able to Keep in Background.

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The entire eastern section of the country as far west as Pittsburg is being combed by federal agents in an effort to stamp out a liquor smuggling and marketing conspiracy described as "one of the most gigantic combinations known" whether legal or illegal.

Working on clues obtained by the Savannah Georgia grand jury which yesterday indicted 126 persons for alleged violation of the prohibition laws, the agents, according to Wm. J. Burns, chief of the bureau of investigation of the Department of Justice, have a winters work before them that is expected to provide sensational results.

A spokesman for the department declares the Savannah indictments were "only the beginning" and that others could be expected shortly in connection with the same "combination." In addition, it was said, the grand jury's inquiry shed light on other conspiracies and these, too are being investigated. Some "widely known persons who hitherto have been able to keep in the background" it was confidently predicted, will be caught in the net and especial effort will be made to run down the financial backers of the vast illegal enterprise.

The names of the persons indicted at Savannah were not made public but it was said they lived in various parts of the country, notably New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Charleston, S. C., and the Chesapeake capes section. Some foreigners residing in the United States also are involved.

Another result of the grand jury investigation, the department spokesman declared, was the obtaining of much information about the methods of liquor smuggling and marketing, which will be of great value in formulating future prohibition enforcement policies.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 22.—With 126 defendants in various sections of the country under indictment, eight defendants already on trial and more indictments expected on charges of violating the national prohibition laws following a long investigation here by prohibition enforcement forces, federal agents continued their investigation along the eastern seaboard and in the interior.

Following clues obtained in the grand jury investigation of the liquor traffic in this section of the country.

The eight defendants whose trials began yesterday, are all local men, but they are only the first of many to face trial here, court officials say.

Agents developed in Savannah, according to federal agents, have led to New York, Philadelphia, the Chesapeake capes and Charleston, South Carolina, with connections in the traffic chain unbroken as far west as Pittsburg and the end not yet in sight.

The indictments so far are understood to involve charge of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law, transporting, shipping, possessing and importing liquor.

Search For Missing Bodies In Ruins Of Wrecked Plant; Nine Known Dead

(By The Associated Press)
NEW IBERIA, La., Nov. 22.—Search continued today for additional bodies in the ruins of the Wido Sugar Refinery at Loreauville, ten miles east of here, which was razed last yesterday by a terrific boiler explosion, killing at least nine persons and injuring 15 others, five of them probably fatal.

Nine bodies had been taken from the ruins. Of the injured who were taken to the local hospital, seven died and eight were reported in a critical condition.

Three bodies were taken to the morgue, and one was taken to the local hospital. The refinery employed 100 persons. It was announced an investigation into the explosion would be conducted immediately.

Tells Reichstag to Make Hurried Decision—Admits
Internal Position of Germany Is Hopeless and Sees No Prospect of Improvement.

(By The Associated Press)
LONDON, Nov. 22.—In his address before the Reichstag today Chancellor Stresemann is quoted by agency dispatches from Berlin as declaring that his government would relinquish office if it were considered necessary, and that he hoped the Reichstag would make up its mind quickly in order that it might know whether he should continue.

He declared that Germany's internal position was hopeless and so far as he could see there was not the slightest prospect of effecting improvement.

France had expressed fear of serious German developments arising from recent incidents but he could assure France that any developments that might occur would be due entirely to France herself.

The communist deputies constantly interrupted the chancellor.

Dr. Stresemann said that despite Germany's serious position, efforts would be made to continue negotiations with France because the German government desired to leave no stone unturned in its efforts to effect an agreement and improvement in the situation.

The Reichstag, however, must not be led away by the idea that concessions to France would do much to help Germany, motioned in charge of the center, when a light was thrown on the fact that the Reichstag was not a condition to force counter concessions from France.

TWO KILLED IN HILL CITY WHEN CAR HITS TRUCK

(By The Associated Press)
LYNCHBURG, Va., Nov. 22.—Blanche Frances Williams, four years old, killed instantly, E. Williams, aged 19, died later at a hospital and J. L. Williams, father of the two dead children, at home with a fractured hip, are the results of an accident this forenoon in Fort Avenue, when a light car, occupied by the three started to back from a private alley across the street car track to Fort Avenue and the truck was struck by a street car, causing the car to roll over and crush the children.

The three members of the family were leaving their home to go to school, intending to attend the funeral for Mr. Williams' mother, who at the time was at her mother's home.

After the accident Mr. Williams, though badly dazed, stated a patrolman that he saw the approaching car, but thought he had ample time to cross.

Richard Clements, colored, was early this afternoon placed under arrest on a charge of stealing tobacco from a store in the neighborhood of Virginia and selling it on the local market. It was learned that the negro had sold a lot of tobacco weighing 204 pounds at Hollands warehouse. The tobacco in question is alleged to have been stolen from Sam Walker, but it is alleged Clements has been active in taking tobacco from other farmers' barns.

Desk Sergeant H. A. Perkins early this morning received a telephone message from Walter North at Greensboro, informing him of the alleged thefts and asking that the negro be apprehended. Sergeant J. L. Edwards and Patrolman Reid investigated and found that the man had sold a lot of tobacco at Hollands. He had received his check and gone to Greensboro. Patrolman Reid received a call that Clements had been seen on the street and Officer Reid went immediately for him. He had no trouble in locating the man in question because of the fact that he wore a white sweater, this portion of his description having been given by the informant.

Clements was jailed and his case set for a morning.

Final Settlement On 1922 Tobacco Is Promised Soon

Announcement of Long Delayed Last Payment
Is Made By Tobacco Growers' Association
But the Amount Is Not Indicated—Means
Great Boon to Farmers and to County
Merchants Who Have Granted Credits on Strength of Expected Installment of Money

The long delayed third payment on the last crop of tobacco delivered to the Tobacco Growers' Co-Operative Marketing Association will be made by January 10th, possibly earlier. This definite announcement is made from the headquarters of the Association at Raleigh in which Oliver J. Sands, executive manager of the organization is quoted.

The payment of many thousands of dollars to the farmers of this belt will be a great boon not only to the members of the Association who have been waiting patiently for this final settlement but also to rural merchants many of whom granted credit to farmers on the strength of this payment and who have felt more or less keenly the delay in final settlement. The announcement coming from Raleigh fails to indicate what the payment will be but the fact that one is to be made will be heartening to the membership of the Association.

The fixing of an ultimate date by which the third payment will be made follows closely the exclusive publication in last Sunday's Register of a statement made in Charlotte by Richard R. Patterson, manager of the department of the association, that the final payment would be made "within a few weeks." Pressed for a more definite time, Mr. Patterson said that it would be about the first of the year. Since that statement was made there has been lively speculation when it would be made and what the payment would be. Officials of the association and their attorneys have been bombarded with questions in the hope of securing "inside" information bearing on the actual date.

The local attorney for the "pool" on Monday strongly advised local officials to announce the date as early as possible expressing the belief that it would do more to help the association at this time than anything else.

Last night the Raleigh bureau of the "Co-ops" made the formal announcement Mr. Sands' statement being as follows:

"In a way, our members in Eastern North Carolina and the old belts that a third payment will be made by January 10, and we hope on an earlier date. I desire to verify fully Mr. Patterson's statement, published November 19."

England Is Joyful Over Agreement

Politicians Glad to Be Relieved—"Half a Loaf Better Than None" Is Summary of Views of Paris Papers.

(By The Associated Press)
LONDON, Nov. 22.—The agreement by which France and Great Britain had agreed to present a common front to Germany is heartily welcomed here and not the least by the politicians who are glad to be freed, even if the relief should prove to be only temporary, from menacing trouble while the domestic electoral fight is in progress.

Some quarters credit Premier Poincaré with having taken a more conciliatory attitude because of a desire not to embarrass Prime Minister Baldwin during the election campaign.

The text of the notes to Germany was not available here until a late hour last night and the only press comment this morning is furnished by the Daily News, which is hostile to both the British government and the French premier. This newspaper contends that "it is obvious Premier Poincaré is beginning to feel the effects of a growing moral isolation and it seems the British government in handling the situation in the past."

PARIS PAPERS SAY NOTES ONLY FEIBLE PRODUCTIONS

(By The Associated Press)
PARIS, Nov. 22.—The attitude of Paris newspapers toward the agreement which the council of an hour ago has sent to Germany may be summed up in the old adage:

"Half a loaf is better than none."

The papers agree that the notes were only feeble productions, but they also point out that the allies preserved a united front.

The first communication notified Germany that the inter-allied military control mission will resume its functions in Germany and serves notice that "should these operations meet with obstruction from the German authorities or German nationals, the allied governments intend to take measures which may seem to them proper to assure execution of the treaty."

The second note informs Germany that the allies will hold the Reich responsible for the consequences, which may result from the fact that the allies have decided to discontinue the details of the conference. He indicated he would make a statement later in the day.

"A success?" Swenson asked. "I should say so. I'm going to have another building addition to the garage for its is so crowded."

Swenson is a retired sea captain and in addition to the cash consideration the children born to his tenants have been promised sea yarns when they grow up.

IN NEW YORK, THE MODERN ATTEMPT TO RECREATE THE OLDEST KNOWN TRANS-PORTATION, CAMELS, BOTH USED IN NEW SCIENTIFIC EXPLORATIONS.

By STEVE HANNAGAN
NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—We all may be older than we think for skeletons of humans who lived more than a million years ago are expected to be found when scientists return to their digging in the Gobi desert in Mongolia next year.

If such skeletons are found scientists expect to establish that the present waste land of the Gobi desert once was the cradle of mankind, the Garden of Eden.

Dinosaur eggs believed to be ten million years old were found in the Gobi desert and recently brought into America by an expedition sponsored by the American Museum of Natural History and Asia Magazine and led by Roy Chapman Andrews.

We confidently believe that we shall prove that the first man lived in the Gobi desert, which we will explore again next year," says Andrews. "We expect to prove that he came to America and Europe over land bridges which have since been submerged as we believe descendants of the mammals whose fossils we have found crossed."

The oldest man of which scientists have found trace is the Ape man, supposed to have lived 500,000 years ago. If the expedition headed by Andrews finds proof of the existence of man a million years before that, present theories of evolution of man will have to be revised. It may still be proved that man descended from an ape, but the Ape man who existed 500,000 years ago may have been a retrograde branch of the human family.

As on the last expedition the caravan which Andrews will lead into the Mongolian hinterland, a country probably less explored and charted than any other of modern times, will be composed of camels guided by natives on motor trucks and cars driven by Yankees.

Andrews will be accompanied by Walter Granger, chief paleontologist of the last expedition. Greater progress is expected on the new venture through the experience gained on the last. Men on the last journey into the Mongolian plains sacrificed their clothing and used the hair of their camels to make protective coverings for the fossils they unearthed.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after-effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Col. Kemper Tells Lions That Laws Should Be Obeyed

A meeting characterized by the proper spirit, featured by a splendid program and topped off by an excellent meal was held yesterday by the Lions Club at the Burton hotel. The attendance was large and the program went with a verve and snap that reminded one of army days. It was in charge of a committee from the American Legion and the slogan was "no in into it" or "out of it," with a view to accomplishing both actions with the same movement. It was the first meeting held in the past month.

The feature of the program was an educational talk by Col. W. M. Kemper, of V. M. I. The speech was a propos of education week and was appreciated. Col. Kemper did not confine himself to facts about education or reforms of curricula, in fact, hardly touched upon expected topics, but delved deeper. Discipline was his theme. The lack of it in the present day youth's scheme of things was commented upon and deplored, since without the groundwork of discipline there was very little upon which to build. Discipline in the home, discipline in the school was lacking; the two greatest forces for education lacked an essential. This lack was being made manifest not only among the children, who for lack of it, did as they pleased, thus ruling the home, but was to be seen among adults, who failed utterly in attitude and spirit to bring themselves under the discipline of law. This led the speaker to law enforcement and law observance, a strict line of demarcation being drawn between the two principles. Law enforcement, Col. Kemper said, was becoming scarce because there was no law observance. There was an amazing lack of understanding as to the obligations of citizenship in this regard; there seemed to prevail a sweeping contempt among many for certain laws. In application this was certainly so for many daily violated both the word and spirit of laws with which they disagreed. Laws not only were not inviolate, but to many merely amusing handicaps to be overcome in the gratification of a personal desire.

Committee reports were read at yesterday's meeting. During the past week there has been remarkable activity among certain committees of the Lions. This is a result of a determination of President Pritchett that committees show more reason for their existence than merely to grace the letter-head of the club. In response to presidential spur there was no little functioning, out of which has grown commendable examples of good intentions, which President Pritchett intends to see crystallized into definite action.

An invitation from the Kiwanis Club inviting the members of the Lions Club to dine with that organization on December 6 was read and immediately accepted.

The matter of securing one or more football games for this city was next broached and received the instant endorsement of the club, President Pritchett appointing Buck Conway and Hunt Wimble as a committee to act with the Rotarians and Kiwanis. It was stated at the meeting that several colleges had expressed a desire to come to this city to play and with very little encouragement would be glad to schedule a game here.

SETTLEMENT IN STOKES CASE OUT OF COURT

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—A settlement out of court in the action for separate maintenance brought by Helen Elston Stokes against her husband, W. E. D. Stokes, wealthy hotel owner, has been made. It was reported today, after a conference in the chambers of supreme court Justice Vassar at which both Mr. and Mrs. Stokes were present. A final settlement will be made in court tomorrow. It was stated.

The arrangement, it was said, will give Mrs. Stokes an annual alimony of more than $15,000, the amount she is now receiving. In addition, Mr. Stokes will provide a trust fund of approximately $750,000 for their two children. Both children are to remain in the custody of Mrs. Stokes in Denver. Mr. Stokes will have the right to visit them when he likes.

The agreement was expected to terminate various court actions under way between Mrs. Stokes and her husband.

New German Oil Formula Rubs Out Rheumatic Pains.

Local Druggists Give Written Guarantee to Refund Money if First Application Fails to Bring Relief

A remarkably new discovery now promises quick, soothing relief to rheumatic sufferers. German chemistry that has given to the world the boon of Aspirin for the relief of headache pains and Novocaine for painless dentistry, has now come forward with another scientific discovery that is absolutely guaranteed to cure rheumatic pains.

This marvelous discovery, known as Rubier Oil is a new combination of certain rare oils which produces a clear amber liquid that is applied with the finger tips. It is so penetrating that it disappears within a few seconds, so it must be entirely absorbed by the body tissues. Results are truly amazing. Tired muscles regain life, cracking joints become supple, annoying twinges cease. Even the most advanced, stubborn cases show astonishing improvement almost at once.

Rheumatism, it has been found in an enormous number of cases, is due to toxic poisons formed in the intestines, which are carried by the blood to the muscles and joints. And the new German oil is designed to neutralize these pain-causing poisons.

So amazing have been the results from this German discovery that American druggists have authorized local druggists to offer it under a positive written guarantee, signed by the druggist himself, to refund the purchase price if even the first application fails to bring prompt and gratifying relief.

If you suffer from stabbing rheumatic pains in the arms, legs and muscles—if your back sometimes feels as if it would break in two—if your joints rasp and torture you—then by all means try a bottle of Rubier Oil today. You'll never want to be without it.

Rubier Oil is sold under an absolute written guarantee from your druggist. If it fails to give you relief after the first application, your druggist will refund the money without question. In the city Rubier Oil can be obtained under this written guarantee from good druggists, such as McFall's Drug & Seed Store, Clinton Drug Store, Patterson Drug Co., West End Pharmacy Co., A. W. Jacobs & Co., adv.

DR. SCRUGGS OF DANVILLE NAMED

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Scopolamin as a treatment for mental disorders was urged by Dr. P. P. Vessie, of the New York State Home-Opatic Sanitarium for the Insane in an address today at the opening sessions of the thirty-ninth annual convention of the Southern Home-Opatic Medical Association.

Dr. Vessie reviewed some of the cases he had treated and said the use of scopolamin had enabled him to find out the ideas that rule the conduct of persons suffering from mental disorders and the delusions of these people. With this information, he said, cases could be successfully treated.

Doctors Raymond S. Scruggs, of Danville, Virginia; H. C. King, of Washington, W. A. Boles, Knoxville, have been appointed a nominating committee to deal with the annual elections tomorrow.

YOUTH IN HOSPITAL AS RESULT OF AUTO CRASH

Lester Amos, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Amos, of Tosses, is a patient at Edmunds Hospital where he was brought following an accident which occurred Saturday night when the car he was driving struck another car. The accident happened on the new State road between Gretna and Pittsville. Amos was found to have sustained several cuts about the face and neck from flying glass. One wound in his throat which narrowly missed severing an artery bled freely and the youth on arriving at Gretna was found in a weakened state. His condition was such that it was deemed advisable to bring him to the local hospital. His wounds have been treated and at the hospital this morning he was away with even the slightest showed improvement and that he probably would be able to go home in a few days.

TAKE NO RISKS

Don't risk standing on tables and chairs to dust your walls. Have long-handled mops—they are much easier to operate and much less hazardous.

RHEUMATIC NEURITIS

Leaves You Forever

Every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer, that if a full pint bottle of ALLENRHU, the sore conquerer of rheumatism, does not show the way to stay the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

ALLENRHU has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiable and when the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of ALLENRHU, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless ALLENRHU decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance. DON'T BLAME THE MODERN GIRL

By BOB DORMAN

CHARLESTOWN, Mass., Nov. 22.—"If the modern girl isn't all she should be, it's not her fault, but the fault of her dad."

Thus, Joe Disley, well-known 85-year-old Civil War veteran, shifts the responsibility for the alleged indiscretions of the modern flapper from her slender shoulders to those of her parent.

"Girls are different in some ways today, but fundamentally they are the same."

"They don't go around any more than their mothers used to."

"And some of these mothers who roar so loud about daughter staying out until 2 a. m., might do well to remember that they stayed out more than once until 5 a. m., or daylight."

"That they were different, I will admit. They didn't smoke or drink. They kept their dignity. But that was because their fathers always accompanied them."

"Mother usually went along, too, but that was because she, too, wanted to have a good time."

"Dads in those days took an interest in their families. They could go out and have a good time with the youngsters."

"Of course I realize that in these modern days of congested living, it is not so easy to have a party in an apartment house. The next-door neighbor may want to sleep. But there is one simple solution to that."

"People nowadays are too much inclined to be distant to their neighbors."

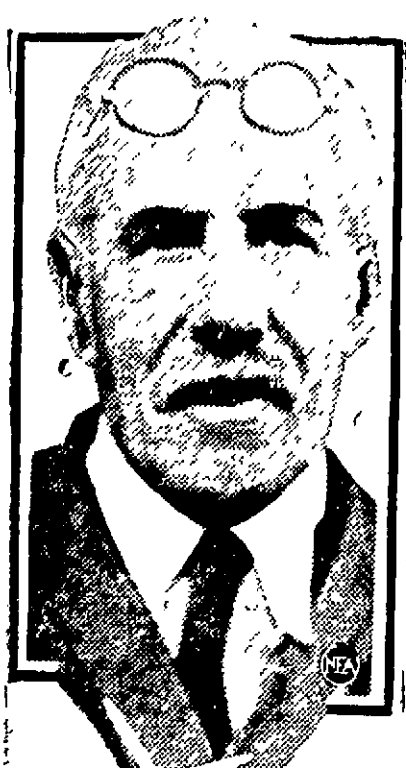

"They don't seem to realize the good times they could all have together."

"And if the youngsters could have a good time at home, they wouldn't be so anxious to get out, no one knows where, to have their fun."

"The only thing to do to bring our girls back to the sweetness and docility they formerly had, is for dads to revive the old custom of chaperoning their daughters."

"In those days a father was looked upon as a companion and the natural protector of his daughter."

"I'll admit that sometimes the girls

JOE DISLEY

slipped away from dad's chaperonage, but even then, they didn't think of going to a dance alone. They would wait in a group on the street near the dance hall, until some boy came along that they knew. He would generally take the hint that they wanted to go to the dance, and invite them to go with him.

"It was nothing unusual in those days for a boy to come to a dance with three or four girls. I know I often picked up several girls on my way to a dance."

Disley served throughout the Civil War, and still is the hero of the quiet neighborhood in Charlestown where he lives, and is the official storyteller for all the youngsters of the district.

BAPTIST PARSON PLACES TURNIPS ABOVE LIVES

(By The Associated Press.)

HIGH POINT, N. C., Nov. 21.—Convicted of assault with a deadly weapon on three High Point school boys, Rev. Thomas C. Carrieth, Baptist preacher, was today ordered to pay $225 into the court to defray the expense of medical treatment for the boys and to pay the costs in the case.

The minister testified that he shot the boys in protecting his turnips. He said he had notified the police of the alleged theft, but they appeared to take no action.

HUSBAND SUES FOR ALIENATION OF WIFE'S LOVE

(By The Associated Press.)

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 21.—John W. West, Onancock attorney, was the first witness in federal court today in his suit against Allison W. Gordy for damages of $25,000 for alleged alienation of his wife's affections. Gordy is the proprietor of a canning factory at Onancock.

West told of several incidents which he claimed caused him to suspect improper relations between his wife and Gordy, although he said he had no reason to believe her guilty of gross misconduct. His contention is that his wife lost her affection for him because of Gordy's attentions, that he frustrated a plan by which she was going to take a trip with Gordy and that as a result of the feeling aroused he was ordered to leave the house on March of this year. The house is in Mrs. West's name, and West says he left, going to the home of his father, where he has since resided.

Counsel for the defense, in his opening statement to the jury characterized the suit as "one of the most unjust which has ever been brought into court." He declared Gordy has no action for Mrs. West. He said there appeared every reason to believe that Mrs. West had lost affection for her husband, but that this was the fault of West and his jealousy and not of Gordy.

NEGRO CONTROLS G. O. P. IN GEORGIA

(By The Associated Press.)

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 21.—A resolution which sought to endorse Senator Hiram Johnson who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for president was tabled here today by a meeting of white and negro members who described themselves as the regular Georgia Republican committee of Georgia Henry Lincoln Johnson, a negro, a Georgia member of Republican national committee, attended the meeting.

The reading of the resolution brought protest from several of those present and the vote to table was carried overwhelmingly.

Johnson in addressing the meeting soon after it assembled said that he would straighten out the Republican situation in Georgia and place control of the organization with the Johnson faction. He evaded questions concerning his statement by saying it would be improper to quote the chief executive. The impression was left with the delegates however, that he was referring to the faction headed by state Chairman J. L. Phillips, white.

Johnson charged Phillips with barring political appointments.

BRYAN'S DAUGHTER SPEAKS HERE

The people of Danville and Schoolfield will be given an unusual treat on Monday evening in the coming of Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen.

Mrs. Owen will give one of her enthusiastic accounts of her varied experiences in a trip around the world. As a daughter of William Jennings Bryan she enjoyed an intimate knowledge of political affairs of the nation and as the wife of Maj. Reginald Owen, of the British Army, she was a member of the active forces in London during the world war. In order to be near her husband, she volunteered as a nurse, to go with General Allenby's troops to Egypt and Palestine, and was present when that romantic campaign was carried to its successful close.

Mrs. Owen will speak at Hyatt Hall Monday night and as the seating capacity is only 275—that number of seats only will be on sale.

THE PHILOMATH SPEAKS

(From The Literary Review)

Put up your hornbooks, childer dear. So ye may now behold

The oldest season of the year. Do that which it is told.

And take good pattern after these Great winds God bade to blow.

Those leaves He ordered off the tree: Ye skies He told to snow.

Nor does it matter to the wind Or sky what may befall.

Since they are glad to please and mind

The Master of us all. So, childer dear, I hope and trust

That same is your desire. Now think on this—a moment, just—

While I go mend the fire

Miss Kennedy On Irish Drama.
"Some Aspects of Irish Drama," as presented by Miss Mabel Kennedy of Randolph-Macon institute, under the auspices of the Literature Circle of the Wednesday Club, yesterday afternoon, successfully accomplished the aim of the speaker in respect of inspiring her hearers by her presentation of the background and the ideals of the makers of Irish drama to seek for themselves, as she has done, the great truth of life as it has been perceived and interpreted by Yeats, Synge, Dunsany, Lady Gregory and others of the school of Irish drama.

—Miss Kennedy believes the reason for the keenness of perception of spiritual truth possessed by the Irish has been attained through suffering which has kept their emotions at fever heat, producing a patriotism incomparable to that of any other country.

In a world stripped bare of material wealth, the Irish people have created a new literature expressed in unadorned, simple language always with a perspective of sky or sea, the Irish actors and writers speak with a repose of manner which is the basis of power to express thought.

She said the Irish dramatists have given for Irish actors who in turn have lived in their characters, expressing themselves with such repose of manner and unstudied gesture, background so natural that the character, projecting the legend into poetic and song which touches the tenderest chords of sympathetic emotion and creates an illusion of idealism.

Very briefly, Miss Kennedy analyzed a few of the most notable Irish plays showing how each writer approaches the great truth in his own way, letting early influences shape the product of later years.

She had stripped her study of all extraneous words and material that the hearer was left with an outline picture upon which the imagination may work for days to come, filling in the gaps as their own studies progress.

At the conclusion of the program (Mrs. Tredway and Grave) and Mrs. Hunt Wimbish served tea and sandwiches from the dining room.

Church Extension Aid Given 3,469 Projects in 4 Years

(By The Associated Press.)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—Church extension aid was given 3,469 separate building projects during the last four years, Dr. D. D. Forsyth, corresponding secretary said today at the opening session of the annual meeting of the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension of the Methodist Episcopal church. Comparing this with a yearly average of a little more than 200 projects aided in previous years the report said, would give an idea of the enormous progress made by the denomination in church building.

The treasurer's report showed that nearly $6,000,000 had been expended for home missions the last four years, $9,600,000 had been put into buildings. Pointing out that the total expenditure for this purpose for the entire preceding fifty years was but $6,500,000, Dr. Forsyth declared the denomination in the last four years had written a chapter in church extension "unparalleled in the history of any denomination."

The report recommended more churches for the rural areas, negro sections, Indian communities, southern midlands and in industrial neighborhoods. Aid also was urged for parishes unable to support a pastor but with possibilities of financial independence.

Dr. Forsyth emphasized the importance of inter-denominational co-operation, "if the work of the church is to be carried forward successfully."

Settle Suit For Alienation of Wife's Affections

(By The Associated Press.)
NORFOLK, Nov. 22.—The depositing of the second damage $25,000 suit in two days for alleged alienation of affections Judge D. Lawrence Groner in federal court today dismissed the action brought by John T. Killman against Ervay Eyrd. When court convened, counsel for the plaintiff announced that they desired to take a non-suit.

There were rumors yesterday that efforts were being made to compromise, but no statement could be obtained today as to the nature of the arrangement which led to the plaintiff's dropping the case for the case for which a jury had already been chosen.

John W. West, Onancock attorney, yesterday lost his case against Allison K. Gordy for damages of $25,000 for alleged alienation of the affections of Mrs. West Gordy, denied the charge and his evidence was supported by that of his wife, the wife of the plaintiff and the plaintiff's sister, Mrs. Ray Shields. Gordy is a resident of Baltimore.

No. 6—Dancing Exercises

ARTHUR MURRAY'S PARTNER, AILEEN MEEHAN, DEMONSTRATES THE PROPER STEP FOR WOMEN—AS LONG AS POSSIBLE, WITH TOE POINTING BACKWARD

BY ARTHUR MURRAY
Director, National Institute of Social Dancing
Before teaching people to do the actual steps in a dance like the fox trot, I first give them a series of exercises. These exercises are the basis for infinite ballroom steps and consist of movements which at first may seem entirely foreign to the ballroom dance. The object of the exercises is to train the muscles which are used in dancing.
After the pupil has brought the required muscles under control, it is a simple matter to learn the details of the dance. In most instances the pupil is capable of following her partner immediately after learning the exercises, which, by the way, bear a close relationship to physical culture exercises.

Help Figure, Too.
In my experience with teaching social dancing by giving a series of exercises, I have found that many of these exercises, in addition to teaching the person to dance, so serve as aids in developing the figure to the ideal form. These exercises also make one graceful goes without saying.

Let us now consider some of these exercises in relation to those dancing steps for which they constitute the logical preparation, and for which they develop the co-ordination and technique necessary if one would do these dances well.

In following it is essential for the girl to dance so that her feet will always be out of reach of her partner's and at the same time she must dance with ease and without pulling away from him. The secret of knowing how to live through a dance and American tango in his next article.

Men Indicted for Rioting Will Plead Mistaken Identity

Four, including Philadelphia Pitcher, Held in Connection With Flogging of Man and Woman by Six Masked Men.

(By The Associated Press.)
ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 22.—Pleas of mistaken identity will be entered in the cases of at least four of the men charged in indictments returned yesterday by the Cobb county grand jury with rioting and assault and battery in connection with the alleged flogging of six masked men of Mrs. Bertha Holcombe, 22, of Smyrna, Georgia and H. Norton, a traveling salesman of Atlanta, at a lonely spot near Smyrna last Friday night. It developed early today.

Kellar Hasty, member of the Philadelphia American League team, who recently married Wilma Butler, daughter of R. E. Butler, Cobb county planter, and Frank and Arthur Hasty, his two brothers, indicted in connection with the affair, will submit evidence stating that effect that they were in Marietta, Georgia at the time of the flogging, it was announced.

Tom Black, the fourth man indicted, announced that he was at work in Atlanta from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until eleven o'clock last Friday night. The flogging, according to the story told by Mrs. Holcombe, occurred shortly after nine o'clock that night.

P. C. Cook an Atlanta mechanic, also charged with complicity in the flogging, refused to comment on the charge against him.

Joe Bramlett, the sixth man indicted, had not been reached for a statement early today.

According to reports here, Mrs. Holcombe ascribed the flogging to police. She was quoted as saying that she could positively identify three of the six men.
The indictments were returned by the grand jury following the testimony of Mrs. Holcombe and Norton. They alleged they were forcibly seized by six masked men shortly after they alighted from a street car, taken to the woods in two automobiles and whipped. The six men were charged with two offenses against

Walton Fails in Effort Before Federal Court

(By The Associated Press.)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 21.—J. C. Walton failed today in his second effort to obtain federal intervention in the action of the Senate court of impeachment which Monday removed him as governor.

Judge John H. Cotteral, in federal court here, reaffirming a ruling handed down at Lawton, Oklahoma, the day before the impeachment trial opened, held that his court had no jurisdiction in the case and sustained a motion by George F. Short, state attorney, to dismiss the disputed executive's suit.

Walton entered an exception to the decision and announced he would appeal to the United States Supreme court.

The former governor sought a restraining order to nullify all proceedings of the impeachment court. He alleged his impeachment resulted from a conspiracy between the Ku Klux Klan and members of the legislature.

At the conclusion of the hearing Walton went to the Oklahoma county court house and announced he expected to be indicted by the district court grand jury which now is in session. He said he did not know what the charges would be but desired to be present to submit to arrest at once. He waited for some time but the grand jury did not report today.

J. K. Wright, county attorney, later announced the report probably would be made tomorrow.

Meanwhile the House filed impeachment charges against Charles H. Ruth, state supreme court commissioner, who is accused of trafficking in executive clemency. Articles of impeachment, drafted by an investigation committee were approved 84 to 1 and will be filed in the Senate court for trial.

Ruth was appointed to his office by the disposed executive.

Gy Zeigler, representative from Carter county, likewise was named as an alleged agent through which several acts of clemency had been effected in a resolution introduced by the investigating committee which asked his expulsion.

Alleged abuse of executive clemency powers also was considered in the Senate, when a resolution was introduced proposing the submission of constitutional amendment to remove such authority from the executive.

The Senate plans to consider tomorrow all Ku Klux Klan bills that have been introduced in an effort to select the best features of all for incorporation in one bill.

U. D. C. DELEGATES AT WHITE HOUSE

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Delegates to the thirtieth annual convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy were received by Mrs. Coolidge at the White House this afternoon.

Approximately 2,000 members passed through the East entrance to the reception, which followed a busy morning session of the convention.

Immediately after the annual memorial services were held. Tonight the visitors were guests at a colorful reception at the New Willard Hotel given by the Southern Society of Washington.

Three cheers for Woodrow Wilson were given at the roll call of the thirty-six state representatives this morning. The proposal met with an enthusiastic response and was followed by the singing of State or Southern songs as the roll call proceeded.

An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotions Revealed in Private Letters

At that moment, little Marquise, Ruth came in. I never was so glad to see any one in all my life. She was bringing me the loveliest orchid negligee you ever saw and that took Mrs. Smithson's attention for the moment.

"I expect you will have great success," she said to Ruth, "in your new venture. Of course all your friends will show their sympathy for you by making purchases at your shop."

"I am neither looking for sympathy nor charity," Mrs. Smithson said. "I am going into a perfectly legitimate business and I hope that I shall make it pay. That's all."

"Very admirable of you I am sure," (That woman seems to have a self-esteem that compares with a rhinoceros' skin. Nothing can get under it.)

I knew Ruth wanted to talk to me privately but that woman stayed and stayed and at last had the nerve to ask Mrs. Prescott to tell me the name of the picture "Trumping His Heart" was being shown in New York.

Ruth stiffened and then deliberately lied. "I think I saw it advertised but I was too busy to go and see it."

"Oh, Mrs. Prescott told me that you had seen the picture," Ruth recovered herself quickly. "Was that the picture in which Paula Perier played? I didn't remember the name of it when you spoke. Yes, I saw it."

"How did you like it, Mrs. Ellington?"

"Very much indeed."

"It has been making a great sensation around here."

"I expect so," said Ruth. "Miss Perier was one of the most beautiful girls in town, you know. Pardon me, Mrs. Smithson, but wasn't she the young woman to whom your husband paid so much attention before you were married? Some one told me that she had turned him down and the next thing I knew your marriage was announced."

"Nothing of the sort, nothing of the sort. Of course, Mr. Smithson thought, as did all the men in town, that she was a very pretty girl. But as for paying her any attention, he only did what he could not get out of. The girl pestered him into death running after him."

"Oh that was the way of it," said Ruth innocently. "Well, I can hardly understand Mr. Smithson's attitude in the matter, for it always seemed to me that Paula Perier was really much too good for him. Again you will pardon me, Mrs. Smithson."

"I'll do nothing of the kind, Mrs. Ellington, and it seems to me that you are not in a position with your husband leaving you for another woman to throw stones at what you consider my glass house."

"I have had a very pleasant evening, Mrs. Prescott, but I will have to take leave now as I cannot stand insults even by implication. Good evening."

She flounced out.

SIX INDICTED FOR FLOGGING

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 21.—Six men were indicted by the Cobb county grand jury at Marietta, Georgia, near here late today on charges of rioting and conspiracy in connection with the alleged flogging by a masked band of Mrs. Bertha Holcombe, of Smyrna, Georgia and S. H. Norton of Atlanta, at a lonely spot between Smyrna and Atlanta last Friday night.

The six men indicted are: Kellar Hasty, pitcher of the Philadelphia American League team; his brother, Arthur and Frank Hasty, farmers living near Smyrna; Parks Cook, a mechanic who works in Atlanta, and Tom Black and Joe Bramlett.

All were taken into custody by Sheriff Shanson of Cobb county late this afternoon. They were released on bond of $4,000 each.

Counsel Asks That Verdict

(By The Associated Press.)
RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 22.—Arguments on a motion by defense counsel that the verdict in the case of Robert O. Garrett, under sentence to five years imprisonment in connection with the death of the Rev. Edward Sylvester Pierce, who was shot to death in front of the Capitol parsonage at Cumberland Court House on June 5 last, be set aside and a new trial granted were to be heard by Judge B. D. White here this afternoon. The motion was based on claims that no venire facias were made for the sixty Southampton county citizens who were ordered to Cumberland county clerk was selected. Defense counsel also claimed errors were made in charging and instructing the jury.

The same array of counsel that participated in trials of Garrett and his brother, Larkin Garrett, also prominent in Cumberland county affairs, which was held in the state law library here. Larkin Garrett, indicted jointly with his brother for the murder of the Rev. Mr. Pierce, is scheduled to go on trial for the second time at Cumberland County Courthouse on December 11. His first trial and the first trial of Robert Garrett resulted in mistrials when Judge White discharged the jurors because of irregularities.

HOW DOCTORS TREAT COLDS AND THE FLU

First Step in Treatment Is Calo-tals, the Purified and Refined Calomet Tablets That Are Nauseless Safe and Sure.

Doctors have found by experience that no medicine for colds, coughs, sore throat and influenza can be depended upon for full effectiveness until the liver is made thoroughly active. That is why the first step in the treatment is the nausealess calomet tablets called Calotabs, which are free from the sickening and weakening effects of the old style calomet. Doctors also point out the fact that an active liver may go a long way towards preventing influenza and colds and is one of the most important factors in enabling the patient to successfully withstand an attack and ward off pneumonia.

One or two Calotabs at bed time, with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea, no slightest interference with your eating, pleasure or work. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your system is purified, and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Genuine Calotabs are sold only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents for the large, family package; ten cents for the small, vest-pocket size—adv.

Piles

Can't Be Cured from the Outside.
External treatments seldom cure piles.
Nor do surgical operations.
The cause is inside—bad circulation.
The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.
The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.
To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through the stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method.
J. S. Leonard, M. D., set at work some years ago to find a real internal pile remedy. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It's easy to take and can always be found at Patterson Drug Co., who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer—adv.

DANVILLE'S FAIR SUCCESSFUL UNDERTAKING REPORT SHOWS

The joint report of President A. D. Stirling and Secretary H. B. Watkins of the Danville Fair Association was issued today, this being a resume of the last fair and being addressed to the stockholders of the organization.

The report states that the fair was "probably the most successful in the history of the Fair Association although it is pointed out that the attendance did not eclipse that of some other years. The report after dealing with the several aspects of the fair, expressed the belief that steps should be taken without delay to prepare for the next fair and to enlarge it in several particulars. The last fair provided a larger income than that of 1922.

Interesting excerpts from the report follow.

"Carrying out the instructions of the board of directors, we arranged for and conducted probably the most successful agricultural fair in the history of the Fair Association. Not that it exceeded other fairs in gate receipts, but new features have been added that make the fair more attractive to its patrons and more satisfactory to the management in that the new features added have resulted in creating a more widespread interest on the part of our patrons from the country. One of the new features referred to is the splendid exhibits made by the accredited high schools of the county as shown in the history of the fair. The exhibits were decorated and well arranged booths occupied by them in our agricultural building. The splendid exhibits made by the high schools showed real progress in agriculture, manual training and domestic arts. The exhibits were of high educational value, and caused more favorable comment than any other one feature of the fair.

"Another new feature was the exhibit made by the colored demonstration agent of Henry county. The showing of this exhibit has increased materially in interest among our colored citizens and has brought from the representatives of the colored race expressions of approval and future interest in our agricultural fair. We should not be unmindful of the fact that probably 20 per cent of the fairgoers are of various counties who contribute to our fair, are colored men and women, and our officials are of the opinion that every reasonable assistance should be offered to secure their cooperation as exhibitors in the future.

"In order to secure attractions of real merit and class for the 1924 fair, in our opinion, it will be necessary to have your president or secretary visit one or more of the larger cities in which are located the big agencies that furnish attractions for fairs in order to get first-hand information as to the value of such attractions for fairs, as in their judgment they believe to be the strongest drawing card for the fair.

"Never since our connection with the Danville Fair Association have we found a more interested and satisfactory experience in contracting with the most responsible carnival companies who are financially able to pay a fair price for shows and concessions, and can be relied upon to live up to their contracts and obligations.

carrying out the aims and purposes of our organization.

"Considerable expense was incurred in adding to the grandstand, raising the fence stand and enclosing the property adjoining the fair grounds owned by the street car company, and while our expenses for premiums, improvements, insurance and repairs exceed our expense account of last year by $2,500.00 to $3,000.00, our income was somewhat in excess of last season's.

"We think the directors should begin at once to prepare for the 1924 fair, and endeavor to make it the 'Best Yet' has been clearly demonstrated that the residents of the surrounding territory are glad to patronize a fair that is clean, educational and entertaining. Let us enlarge our premiums where we can procure the best and cleanest shows, pick out high class free acts, make our fair 100 per cent good, and we can reasonably expect the attendance to increase as the years go by, remembering always that if we expect to get anything out of the fair we must first put something into it."

P. O. Improvement Work Is Started

George E. Wright, of Chicago, recently awarded the contract to widen the driveway in the rear of the federal building has begun work which is expected to be completed by January 1st. A stout concrete retaining wall is to be built close to the government's line and a quantity of earth will be used to fill in the space thereby giving more room for the motor vehicles now used in the delivery of mails and parcel post. Yesterday the workmen discovered a telephone cable running under the government property and this is to be removed before work can proceed.

Postmaster Lumpkin sees little chance of interior changes in the lobby of the postoffice being done before Christmas. He submitted plans of changes he wanted made so as to expedite service to the public but when the plans were returned with authorization to proceed with the work, Mr. Lumpkin found that the whole scheme had been changed and he is now trying to secure the adoption of the original plans. In order to cope with the usual Christmas rush the postmaster intends to open another window to take care of parcel post material leaving the stamp window free to deal with the public without the tedious delays which are now frequently experienced.

Five Escape Death In Burning Plane

Catches Fire, Dives Into Sea
and Explodes, Just as Men Leap Out—Rescued
by Destroyer.

(By The Associated Press.)
SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 22.—Five officers and enlisted men of the crew of an F-5-L seaplane engaged in spotting torpedoes 25 miles off Point Loma, had a narrow escape from being blown to pieces or drowned yesterday when their aircraft caught fire, exploded and sank in fifty fathoms of water. All five were rescued by the destroyer Kennedy after they had been swimming for more than twenty minutes. Chief Electrician Nelson was the only man injured.

The fire was started by the explosion of a smoke bomb about to be thrown from the speeding plane to mark the spot where a spent torpedo fired by a destroyer was resting on the surface of the sea. The plane was flying about 100 feet above the water. Nelson had just raised the bomb to drop it over the side when the rush of air carried it out of his hands and smashed it against his chest. Nelson was knocked down and the bomb, carried by the wind, flew against the starboard propeller, shattering it and sending splinters flying in all directions. The bomb, or what was left of it, was hurled into the bilges of the seaplane where the chemicals, mixing with the water, ignited. In a fraction of a second the seaplane was a mass of flames.

Lieut. Earl Brix, pilot, nosed the blazing ship downward and shouted for the others to jump overboard. The seaplane life preservers, in the middle of the fuselage, were a mass of flames and Brix's first concern was to see whether all his men could swim. They could.

Two minutes after the flaming seaplane hit the surface of the sea one of the gasoline tanks exploded, sending a shower of burning struts and sections of the fuselage over the men who were swimming for their lives. The Kennedy, eight miles away, sighted the cloud of smoke and steamed at top speed to the rescue. All of the men were virtually exhausted when the destroyer dove in sight. Cheers greeted each flier as he was hauled to the Kennedy's docks.

The Kennedy raced to port with the survivors, the other 3 of whom were W. O. Sterman, seaman, first class; C. D. Forsight, chief aviation rigger; and E. B. Thornton, radio man, first class.

STATISTICS THAT DO NOT STATE

Statistics cited recently to show the result of work carried on by the city health department in the public schools and which revealed an amazing proportion of children to be defective in one or other particular, should not necessarily cause concern neither should it be assumed that Danville children are less healthy than they used to be or in a less healthy condition than those in other cities. Statistics are often misleading and in this case there is every reason to believe that the figures quoted have brought about an entirely erroneous impression. The statistics which were given showed a total enrollment of 4,135. Of this number, nurses and other attaches of the city health office examined 4,067 and recorded a total number of 3,007 defects in those children. In other words of the four thousand children examined for superficial symptoms of defects only 1,060 were found to be entirely normal. On paper it looks bad enough and inspires a mental picture of wretched health.

A little explanation should go a long way towards removing public apprehension. Each child is not subjected to a careful medical scrutiny but submits to simple tests to determine the state of vision and hearing, heart murmurs, the condition of the teeth and the condition of the throat. To discover a child with a decayed tooth is, under the plan, to mark down a dental deficiency against that child. Possibly this is a defect which could be readily corrected by a short session in the dentist's chair. Another child may be "off color" on the day of physical examination and may be a pound or two under the charted weight for a boy or girl of that specific age. Here then is a child declared to be sub-normal, accurately so in the strict sense perhaps but manifestly belaying what a more exhaustive enquiry into its physical condition would show. The physical examination figures should not be taken at their serious face value but on the other hand they should not be totally disregarded or spurned. There is a definite value in the system of physical overhauling since in some cases parental attention may be properly directed to corrective treatment at that early stage when it may be of great service. We are not inclined to believe that the general standard of child health is as low as the recorded deficiencies indicate and that there is really no need for depression on the part of those who were startled by the health department's record.

A STERN EXAMPLE IN TEXAS

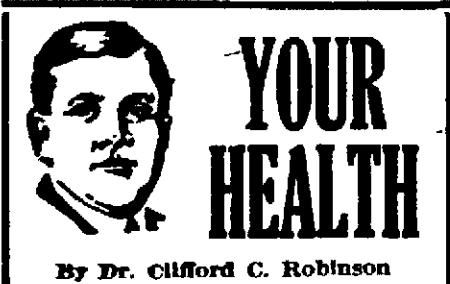

Fourteen years in the federal penitentiary for using the United States mails to defraud at first blush appears a little "steep" when one considers the number of slayers, rapists and seducers who are being dealt with more leniently in the courts. That, however, is the sentence which Dr. Frederick A. Cook of Cretinville, arctic fame must serve following six arduous weeks of evidence taking at Fort Worth, Texas. Others associated with the "explorer" in his oil company development scheme were sentenced to less severe penalties. The conviction of these men is an important victory for the government and is a sharp lesson to those of predatory instincts who play fast and loose with the law in their effort to separate earnings from would-be investors. It is in effect a vital blow struck against the exploitation of the public by magnetic gentry who are clever enough to paint rosy pictures of great financial gain to be reaped by investment in so-called oil lands in the West. The "oil fever" which has developed amazingly within the past two or three years has been the ruination of thousands of men who, never doubting the integrity of the stock salesman nor the truth of the cleverly drawn up prospectus, have parted forever with hoarded savings. Virginians may thank their legislature for the wise enactment of the "Blue Sky law" under the terms of which the sale of stock is actually prohibited until a permit has been granted by the state corporation commission which probes deeply every company putting stock on the market and withholds such permits until there is very definite evidence that the concern is trustworthy and offering at least reasonable chance for a return.

LOOK BEFORE CROSSING

A rather novel contribution to the current discussion of how to lessen automobile accidents is made by a New York physician. It is to employ the power of repeated suggestion in an effort to make the public more careful. For 15 years he has gone his daily round about the metropolis on the front seat of an automobile, sitting with his chauffeur, "for the reason that the utmost attention is required on the part of both to prevent us from more or less damaging the New York City pedestrian. Up to the present time we have not damaged a single individual, but we are not at all sure about tomorrow. There are those who use our streets who apparently insist on being run over, if one is to judge from their indifference to their surroundings," continues the doctor. As he sees it from the front seat of his car, about 10 per cent. of accidents may be laid at the door of the automobile driver and the rest are due to absence of concentration on the part of the pedestrian.

Here is where he believes a policy of organized suggestion would come in. He would have every newspaper print conspicuously on the front page daily, "before you cross the street to day look carefully to right and left." He would have the same warning flashed on motion picture screens and posted up in all the schools and public buildings and the sign displayed on every third lamp post. Within a few days, he believes, every person who is not blind or illiterate would involuntarily look to right and left before crossing a street. He would do so because he could not help it; it would have become a habit. Even if such a scheme of publicity is not adopted, self-education of every individual in this common sense precaution is possible, and obviously acquiescence of the habit would reduce automobile accidents to the minimum. The scheme is worth while. The danger of abstraction in one's daily goings is becoming more and more emphasized. We had an example of it impressed on us yesterday when evidence at a coroner's inquest revealed a child running, as children, impulsively across the street to his death.

NERVES
 A large number of women develop nervousness or nerve instability as a result of the same ailment. It is permitted to gnaw at their vitality and remain undisturbed for years. Many people, often in the same family, do not understand or sympathize, especially if they have never had it in the same manner. They declare that the nervous symptoms in Aunt Jennie or Sister Sue are "imaginary." But it isn't. The one afflicted knows different through the terror of many a nerve-racked day and nights that sometimes last for years.

"Nerves" are a deadly enemy to the appearance and attractive personality of any woman. They aggravate and increase to a marked extent any actual ill health she may have. The first thing to realize is that there is a cause. You must try to remove that and make up your mind not to let it escape from you. If you are troubled with drowsiness, begin at once to get your digestive organs into a healthy, sound condition to proper food. If you are doing more than you should properly do, get the cause removed. The nervous woman breathes rapidly, and by so doing expends energy she ought to save. Practice muscle relaxation with complete rest at certain intervals during the day and try deep breathing frequently during both rest and work. Scoop's Colyum

DRAPERS BRANCH, Nov. 22—(Grapevine Wireless).—The question is often asked, "What has become of the lightning-rod agent?" Among those who know him Thomas A. Edison has been a ready wit, and one of the incidents which helped to make that reputation had to do with an experience of his in East Orange, N. J. There had been a series of severe electrical storms, and the vestrymen of a certain church had discussed the advisability of placing lightning rods on the edifice. They were even divided for and against it, and decided to appoint a committee of one, a pompous and dignified gentleman, to call on Edison and get his opinion on the efficacy of lightning rods, and abide by his decision. Edison was very busy and in no mood to be disturbed when the committee called. The visitor in his lofty style explained that he had called to secure the inventor's opinion of lightning rods, and concluded with: "I think, sir, that lightning rods are a mighty good thing on a building. What do you think?" "What sort of a building is it?" asked Edison impatiently. "A church."

"By all means put them on," said the great inventor, quick as a flash. "You know Providence is absent-minded at times."

Cheerful Giver.
 Tommie's father had given him a ten-cent piece and a quarter of a dollar, telling him he might put one or the other on the contribution plate.

"Which did you give, Tommie?" his father asked when the boy came home from church. "I ought to put in the quarter," said the lad, "but then just in time I remembered, the Lord loveth a cheerful giver, and I knew I could give the 10-cent piece a good deal more cheerfully, so I put that in."

"All right back there!" bawled the conductor. "Ho! on, ho! on," shrieked a feminine voice. "Jes wait till I get mah clothes on."

And then, as the entire car full craned their necks expectantly, she entered with a basket of laundry.

Another Definition.

"Love grows by what it feeds on." "Love is the key of life."

HORNS
 A horn six inches long grew on the head of an old man, 67. It didn't particularly harm him—probably was convenient for preventing his hat blowing off. But as soon as the doctors saw it, they smacked their hips and wanted to operate. They talked the owner into parting with his unique belonging.

The horn is exhibited now, before the Australian Medical Congress. The scientific theory is that it's a "throat" to repulsive ancestors with horns. Or that the owner lived ahead of his time—more plausible theory, since we know plenty of people who could wear horns advantageously.

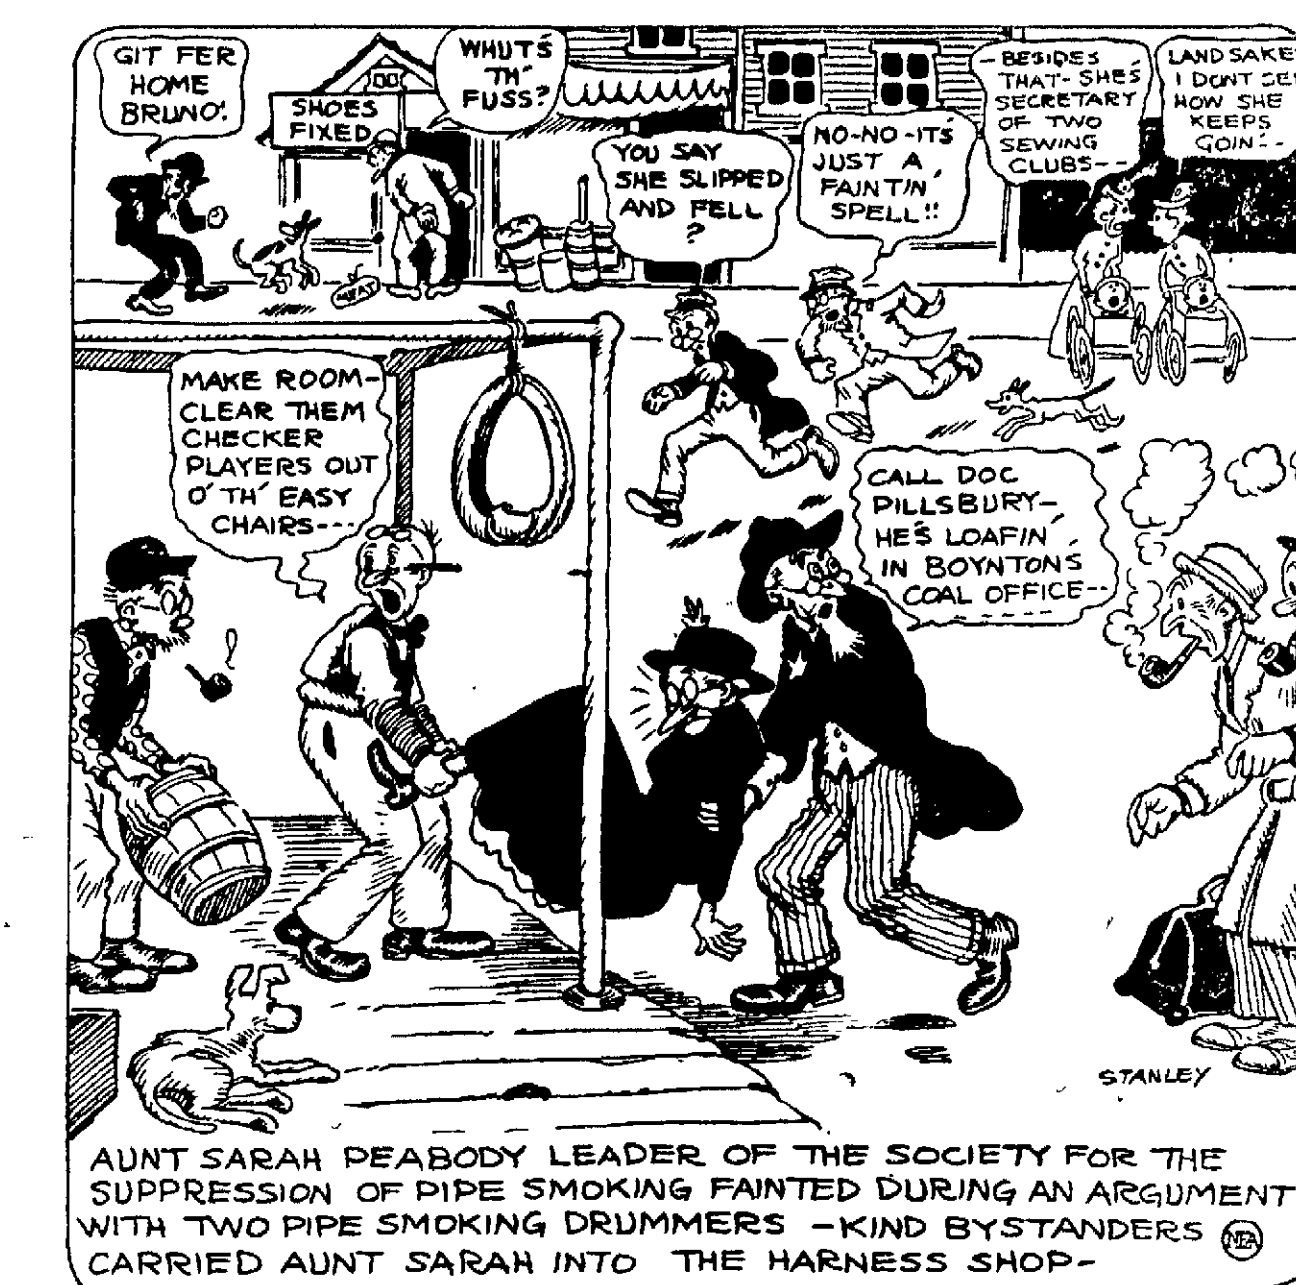

TOILETS
 Our bodies are well standardized, but nature occasionally cuts her patterns mixed. A woman falls dead on the Bowery, New York. Doctors, examining, discover she never had any toes on either foot.

Unlucky—now. But scientists claim that the wearing of tight shoes is apt to lead to a race of women with out-toes, or with only one—a big one—on each foot. Nature gives us what we need and takes away anything we need and takes away wastes.

RULING LINK

GILFLO ALPES A KNOFFLING. ONE'S ME A SERVICEING.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Hubert Stane, discharged convict, while visiting a northern port, the Hudson Bay Company, meets an old friend, Gerald Ainley. Ainley promises to call at Stane's camp at midnight. Stane becomes acquainted with Gerald. Beautiful Indian girl. At midnight Stane is attacked and carried off by Indians. He awakens to find himself in strange surroundings.

Ainley, traveling with a governor of the company, falls in love with Helen Yardley, the governor's niece. Helen disappears from her uncle's camp and Gerald goes in search of her. Stane rescues Helen from the river when her canoe travels toward a dangerous waterfall.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Yes! That is the name. I remember my uncle mentioning it yesterday."

"Then you came down the main stream for a certainty, for the old fort stands on a lake that finds an outlet into this river, though it is rather a long way from here. We will keep straight on. No doubt we shall strike either your uncle's camp or some search party presently."

As it happened the conclusion he reached was based on a misconception. The only waterway to old Fort Winago that he knew was from the main river and up the stream that formed the outlet for the lake. But there was another that was reached by a short portage through the woods from the subsidiary stream from which he turned aside, a waterway which fed the lake, and which cut off at least a hundred and twenty miles. Knowing nothing of this shorter route he naturally concluded that Helen Yardley's canoe had come down the main stream, and took the wrong course in the perfect assurance that it was the right one.

So hugging the left bank they passed the junction of the rivers, and a little further on crossed to the other side to seek shelter from a rising wind, under the high bank. And less than an hour later the canoe, carrying Gerald Ainley and his Indian, swept out of the tributary stream into the broader current, and they drove down-stream, unconscious that every stroke of the paddle was taking them further from the girl whom they sought.

CHAPTER VII

Stranded

It was high noon when Hubert Stane directed the nose of the canoe towards a landing place in the lee of a sand-bar, on the upper side of which was a pile of dry driftwood suitable for firing.

He lit a fire, prepared a wilderness meal of bacon and beans the latter already half-cooked and biscuit and coffee, and as they consumed it, he watched the river, a long stretch of which was visible.

The long day drew to its close and the camp they sought had not appeared; nor had any search-party materialized. As they pitched camp for the night, the doubt which all day had been in Stane's mind became a certainty.

"I am afraid we have made a mistake, Miss Yardley. You must have come down the other river."

"I am sorry to give you all this trouble," said the girl quietly.

"Please—please!" he answered in quick protest. "Believe me it is a pleasure to serve you, and with me a few days do not matter. I shall have enough of my own company before long."

"You are alone?" asked Helen.

"I have an old Indian for company."

"And what do you do, if you will permit me to be so curious?"

"Oh," he laughed. "I hunt. I pursue the elusive porcupine, and I experiment with vegetables. And this winter I am going to start a trapping line."

"But you are rich?" she cried.

After a period of indecision, the intruder left the shadow of the tree and crept quietly down to the camp, his gun still at the ready, and with his eyes fixed on the unconscious Stane. Moving very cautiously he reached the place where the canoe was beached, and looked down into it. A gleam of satisfaction came into his dark eyes as he saw a small sack of beans reposing in the stern, then again a covetous look came into them as their gaze shifted to the stores about the camp. But these were very near the sleeping man, and as the latter stirred in his sleep, the half-breed relinquished any thought of acquiring them. Stealthily he conveyed the canoe down to the water's edge, launched it, and then with a grin on his evil face he gave a last look at the man in the blanket he peddled away.

A full three-quarters of an hour later Stane awoke, and kicking aside the blanket, repented the fire, and then went a little way upstream to bathe. At the end of half an hour he returned. His first glance was towards the tent, the fly of which was still closed, then he looked round the camp and a puzzled look came on his face. There was something a little unfamiliar, something not present which—

"Great Scott! The canoe!"

At a rapid covered the space between him and the camp, and as he looked round and saw that most of the stores reposed where he had placed them the previous night, relief surged in his heart.

"Thank heaven!"

"Mr Stane, what is the matter? You look as if something had startled you."

He swung round instantly. Helen Yardley was standing at the tent door with a smile on her face.

"The matter is serious enough," he explained hastily. "Some one has stolen the canoe and most of the stores reposed where he had placed them the previous night, relief surged in his heart."

"Thank heaven!"

WASHINGTON HAS WOMAN COPS

By NEA Service.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Police chiefs of other cities may get a good tip out of this city's police department.

It concerns the inauguration of a woman's service, conducted solely by women for the protection of women.

It's success is assured by the woman who has made this new angle of police work possible. She is Lieutenant Van Winkle, or Mrs. Mina Van Winkle in private life.

Lieutenant Van Winkle has built up a woman police force in this city of which not only she, but the whole community, is proud. That's because of the unusual average intelligence of her staff, she says. Every member of her force has had to show educational qualifications above the requirements for the men on the same police force.

The graduate nurse, Lieutenant Van Winkle finds, makes the ideal police woman.

Not Like Cops.
The women learn the use of firearms, and some carry pistols. They wear no uniforms. Neither do they swing night sticks. Their duties, Mrs. Van Winkle explains, mostly concern women.

"One woman in my department is detailed solely to the work of finding missing persons," she says. "She's an expert at it—last year she uncovered 164 who were lost, strayed or stolen."

"Two more are detailed to watch railroad stations for runaways."

"Others visit picture houses and public dance halls and they're instructed to disperse children who should be at home in bed, if it's night time, or in school, if it's day."

Cranks and Such.
"Still others have to take care of the cranks who come to Washington to talk over their private troubles with the president. One of these wanted Mr. Coolidge to find a publisher for her latest song: 'Too Much Good Material Going to the Graveyard.'"

Dr. Cook Is Given Fourteen Years For Mails Fraud

(By The Associated Press)
FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 21.—E. J. Cox, alleged associate of Dr. Frederick A. Cook in the operation of the Petroleum Producers' Association and who was found guilty this afternoon in federal court of misuse of the mails in connection with the operations of the company, was sentenced to serve eight years in federal prison and assessed a fine of $5,000 by Federal Judge John M. Killits.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook was given a sentence of 14 years and nine months and a fine of $12,000. A. K. Eckman, was given seven years in prison and a fine of $12,000. Other defendants who had previously entered pleas of guilty were fined as follows: "O. L. Ray, $500; G. A. DeMontmond, $500; H. E. Robinson, $500; Harry B. Leam, $500; E. E. Burmister, $500; H. E. Stephens, was fined $1,000 and sentenced to serve 90 days in jail."

L. A. McKister was given six years and a fine of $1,000. Sentence of a year and a day and fine of $1,000 was imposed on J. S. Egan, C. W. Shute, S. L. Hess, T. O. Turner, B. S. Herringer, E. J. Dawen, and R. L. Maxwell, W. L. Braddish and W. P. Welty were given sentences of two years each and fined $1,000.

Fred K. Smith, treasurer of the Petroleum Producers' Association, was fined $12,000 and sentenced to serve seven years in prison.

Judge Killits passed sentence on Dr. Cook after a scathing denunciation of the methods said to have been practiced by the former Arctic explorer. Cook made no statement.

Cook's bond was placed at $75,000 which he will not be permitted to make until after a complete record of the case has been drawn.

All of the convicted men immediately after being sentenced, were taken to jail, where they will remain until they either make bond or their appeals, which they declare they will make are acted upon.

Only one of the 14 men who stood trial in federal court for six weeks was acquitted, and he, A. M. DeCambre, on an instructed verdict ordered by Judge Killits.

The court began imposing sentences on the convicted men late this afternoon before a court room filled with curious crowds and weeping women, most of them wives of the defendants.

Dr. Cook was found guilty on 12 counts of the indictment against him as were all other defendants, save Cox, whose verdict found him guilty on eight counts.

The jury was out 20 hours. After it had delivered its verdict, Judge Killits launched into an arraignment of Dr. Cook.

Dr. Cook, who was made an international character because of the sheer effrontery, was conducting a school of crime and operating a cold blooded, deliberate confidence game, disguised as the Petroleum Producers' Association, Judge Killits asserted.

His general denunciation of the mail fraud, the jury for nearly six weeks of tireless service.

"You have done what I expected you to do," the court said, "when the nefarious scheme began to unfold in the evidence."

Wives of eleven of the defendants were in court. There was little demonstration from the women as the verdicts were returned.

Dr. Cook sat motionless, his eyes on a figure in the carpet on the floor.

Aviation Reserve System Is Planned

Navy Department in Announcing New Policy Would Train 200 Expert Fliers Annually.

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Plans for an aviation reserve system which will train between 150 and 200 expert fliers annually were announced today at the Navy Department. Embodied in the program is the basis of a new policy which, it is said, constitutes the first concrete step toward building the air service of the fleet to the strength required by modern tactics.

In each naval district "in which the public is sufficiently interested" there will be organized and maintained a reserve unit capable of turning out a minimum of ten pilots a year. The newly-established reserve will be kept to a fixed strength by this annual influx of new blood. Administration and training will be under the command of the district in which the unit is located, additional units being established when in his opinion the conditions warrant.

The commandant also will be authorized to obtain a suitable location for the hangars and other equipment to be furnished by the bureau of aeronautics are to be kept. Equipment for standard reserve training units will consist of two training planes and "fifty per cent. of spare parts and such additional aircraft and material as the resources of the department can afford."

"Owing to the shortage of funds," the announcement says, "the department must look to the civilian authorities of the community in which the unit is to be established for co-operation and material assistance in obtaining those items which current appropriations cannot undertake."

A reserve officer will be called to active duty for assignment to command each unit, the shortage of personnel precluding the use of regulars for this service. Students who enroll for flying will be given the equivalent of a second-class and on completion of their course will be given 45 days' training under service conditions with a naval squadron.

"A similar policy relative to the lighter-than-air training of reservists will be announced later," the department says.

The conference will be presided over by Mrs. Benton McMillan, of Nashville, Tennessee national director general of the regional conference and Democratic national committee woman from Tennessee.

CREDITS RED-HEADS WITH PERSEVERANCE AND AMBITION

(By The Associated Press.)

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 22.—Red-haired persons make the best explorers and conquerors, contends Herbert E. Bolton, professor of American history at the University of California. He credits them with great initiative and persevering ambition.

The professor cites in support of his theory Columbus, Pedro de Alvarado, the most noted of Cortes' assistants, and O'Connor, prominent in the expansion of the American southwest, all were graced with red hair.

Professor Bolton recalls that recently a tribe of Indians in the South Sea Islands killed all but one of a group of explorers. The one man spared had red hair, which the primitive mind took for a symbol of extraordinary power. The savages, moved by some tribal taboo, feared him.

The reader is reminded also that a short time ago a San Francisco firm advertised for a red-haired salesman only.

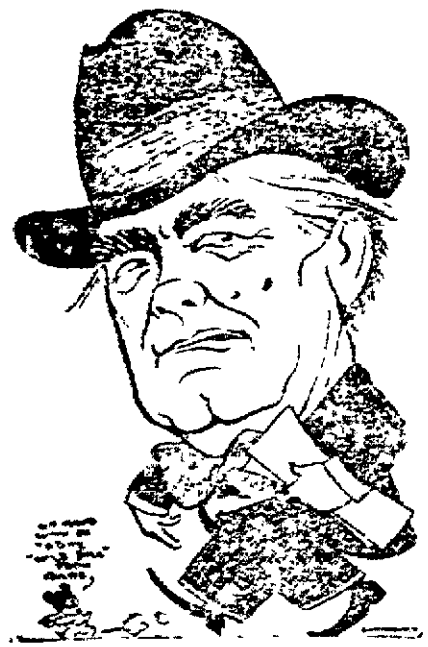

Well Qualified.

Finis Written to Domestic Troubles Mr. and Mrs. Stokes

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—W. E. D. Stokes, wealthy hotel man, and his wife, Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, formerly of Denver, today ended their legal warfare of several years standing through an agreement by which Mrs. Stokes was formally granted a decree of separation.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Finis to the domestic difficulties of W. E. D. Stokes, wealthy hotel man, and his wife, who is half his age, will be written today when a separation agreement is made effective in court.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Stokes signed the agreement by which the wife obtains alimony and custody of the two children, who, however, Mr. Stokes is to be permitted to see occasionally at Mrs. Stokes mother's home in Denver. Full details will be made public today.

The agreement was described as a victory for Mrs. Stokes on top of the two decisive defeats her husband received in attempts to divorce her on grounds of infidelity after temporary alimony of $15,000 a year is understood to have been increased to six per cent. on the $750,000 trust. Mr. Stokes settled on the two children.

Vintage of Eggs Must Be Proclaimed State Law Says

(By The Associated Press.)

Warrants charging violation of the state pure food law sworn out last night against five local restaurants by T. L. Christian, inspector for the dairy and food department of the state board of health, were disposed of in the police court today when all of the persons charged submitted their cases to the mayor. Captain Wooding took a tolerant view of the technical offenses charged and since they were the first cases of record and appeared to be due to an oversight he imposed the minimum penalty which is $25. Mr. Christian concurred in the belief that the minimum fine would serve the purpose of warning them and others that the state expects to see the pure food laws enforced. The inspector stated after the court session was over that the firms proceeded against had been warned before of this particular offense. The warrants were sworn out under that section of the state law which requires the proprietors of eating houses and restaurants to notify their patrons that the eggs served there are of the cold-storage variety. This, the law provides, must be done by the placing of a placard plainly visible to the patrons and notifying them that the eggs are of that variety. If the placard is not posted then the menu must make some reference to the fact that the eggs are of the cold-storage variety.

The concerns which paid the fines today and let it be known that they would in future comply strictly to the law were the Sanitary Cafe, Empire Cafe, Baltimore Cafe, Busy Bee Cafe and the Capital Restaurant.

Inspector Christian has been in Danville since Monday and has been canvassing the entire city. He said this morning that he found grocery stores, and other places where food is sold were in excellent condition and that the food laws of the state are being generally carefully lived up to in Danville.

Lawyers Work to Save Craig From Term for Contempt

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Lawyers are busily engaged today on a plan whereby they hope to save Comptroller Charles L. Craig from the sixty-day jail sentence for contempt, given by Federal Judge Julius M. Mayer and affirmed by the United States supreme court.

What the plan is may become known today. Attorneys said last night the plan might result in the reopening of the case in which Mr. Craig was sentenced but that details would not be made known until a definite decision was reached.

Mr. Craig still holds to his original announcement that he will make no appeal in his own behalf.

SEN. BYRD MAY RUN FOR GOVERNOR OF VIRGINIA

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—That State Senator Harry Flood Byrd, of Winchester, will be a candidate, and the one outstanding candidate, for the governorship of Virginia in 1925 is the consensus of opinion among Virginia political leaders about the capital.

Following the defeat of the road bond proposal in the recent elections and the victory for the pay-as-you-go advocates, it is the belief that the opponents of bonds have a real need for a strong governor to carry out the pay-as-you-go policy to its fullest capabilities. A survey of the situation revealed by this fact indicates that Senator Byrd is the one man who stands out prominently as available for this purpose.

If Mr. Byrd does consent to be put forward for the nomination, it is stated emphatically that no other candidate can be found who would have even an outside chance.

To date, Mr. Byrd is not responding favorably to the efforts to put him forward; but it is pointed out that there is still much time before the primaries, and he has done or said nothing which would embarrass him at all if he should decide to announce his candidacy. During the recent road bond fight, he did issue a statement designed to squelch a rumor that he would become a candidate in the event of the defeat of the bonds, but this statement was merely to the effect that he was not at that time considering the governorship and did not expect to be called on to consider it.

Since, however, it has become practically certain that Mr. Byrd will be forced to consider the governorship, whether he wishes it or not, he cannot be said to have shut himself out from a declaration of his candidacy. The chief obstacle in the way of Mr. Byrd's announcing himself is believed to be in his private interests, which include one of the largest orchards in Virginia, a cold storage enterprise which is the largest in the country, and the ownership of two newspapers. At the same time, however, he is a member of the state senate, with some of the most important committee assignments, and so his friends may be able to convince him that he can accept the office of Chief Executive without too great neglect of his private affairs.

Missing Oil Man Believed Dead, Is Reported Seen

(By The Associated Press.)

CAMDEN, Tenn., Nov. 22.—H. J. Olive, manager of the Standard Oil Company here, who disappeared from his office Sunday, leaving an atmosphere of mysterious murder hanging over this peaceful town, was seen in Paducah, Kentucky, Monday, Sheriff J. H. Flowers announced here today after conferring with a Camden man who had returned from Paducah. The informant's name was not divulged.

Upon this information Olive's wife joined with the majority of other citizens in agreeing in the belief that her husband had not met with foul play but had merely left town.

In Olive's office Monday morning after his disappearance had been discovered was a note signed "K. K. K." and threatening Olive's life and an insurance policy directing payment to Olive's wife.

Senator Watson May Run for President

Expected to Make Bid for Support of Delegation in Opposition to Johnson.

(By The Associated Press.)

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 22.—First guns in the battle for control of the Indiana delegation to the Republican national convention were fired last night when it was announced Senator Jas. E. Watson may become a candidate for president and make a bid for the support for the delegation in opposition to Senator Hiram Johnson. Forces of Senator Johnson under the direction of John Moorman, of Knox Indiana have been active in the state during the past few weeks, it was said.

Senator Watson made it clear he would take no action before consulting party leaders in Washington.

"When I return to Washington Saturday," he said, "I intend to have conferences with a number of my friends on the subject. It will have to confer with Albert J. Beveridge and President Coolidge and a number of other persons before I come to any definite conclusion."

Senator Watson said it was unlikely that President Coolidge, if he becomes a candidate, would care to make a fight in the state primaries.

More Than Billion Dollars Lost in Old "Come-On" Game—N. E. A. Writer Shows How the Swindlers Worked Nefarious Game.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Before you buy any form of security: Investigate. This warning wasn't heeded by thousands of persons in parts of the United States when they received alluring literature of irresponsible oil companies operating in and around Fort Worth, Texas. They bought—and now the federal authorities are investigating. To date, 40 have been convicted or pleaded guilty to fraud charges.

The result is the most amazing story of swindling uncovered in the history of the postal inspection service. It is a story of poor persons and folk in moderate circumstances all over America lured to the promises of gigantic returns and easy fortunes—only to lose all they invested.

In the hope of protecting out-lookers from similar misfortune, The Bee and News Service sent Roy Gibbons, News Service writer, to Fort Worth to make an investigation for the folks at home. This is the first of a series of stories by Gibbons, stories every man, woman and child in Danville should read and heed.)

HOW TO STOP SORE, BLEEDING RECEDING GUMS

Dentists say that a great majority of people either have pyorrhea (Riggs Disease) or pyorrheal tendencies. The beginning is sore, receding or bleeding gums, sensitive or loose teeth, pus pockets and bad odors. Pyorrhea not only affects the gums and teeth, but also your general health, as the pus, which is very poisonous, is absorbed into the system causing serious stomach troubles, the results of which are sometimes fatal.

You can have that pyorrhea at home and get relief with formula known as Creosene, the new discovery that, through penetration, carries a powerful but harmless germicide, of which creosene is the greatest germ-destrorying, tissue-preserving agency known and used by dentists for years.

It is the base, right to the roots of the teeth, killing the pyorrhea germs, making the gums healthy, lightening up and preserving the teeth, healing pus pockets, relieving pain and destroying odors caused by decayed or abscessed teeth.

Creosene is pleasant to use, and should be used by every one who wears a plate, as it keeps the gums firm and healthy and free from pain. $1.00 at your druggist and your money back if it fails. Creosene Co., Atlanta, Ga.—adv

EXTRA DIVIDEND DECLARED

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The Republic Iron and Steel Company today declared an extra dividend of two per cent on preferred stock on account of accumulated dividends. The regular quarterly dividend of 1 3/4 per cent on preferred also was declared.

Something for nothing, or a lot for a little was their particular stock in trade.

By means of high-power, flamboyant literature, advertisements and misleading circulars they bombarded the country with a cloudburst of roseate promises mostly built upon veils of misrepresentation and day dreams of finding oil.

Mention of the name of that sticky, black fluid was as a magic spell, which called for entrance into mesmeric purses.

From start to finish it was the poor man's Waterloo. The rich never weary of fastening opportunity upon gain, were immune from the oil promoter's wiles by very reason of their financial state.

Only the money hoarded away in stockpiling and pantry crock against a rainy day, poured in on the oil promotional coffers.

And behind each offering stunted and sacrificed, were widows and orphans, the lame, the halt, the blind, aged and the feeble and even disabled war veterans, all hoping to make up for former misfortune in one jump to moneyed ease.

They parted with their Liberty bonds in trusting confidence. Then they mortgaged their homes, as hundreds of cases testify, to satisfy the appetites of the promoters who baited their prey on to further misery with telegraphic followups to the literature already sent.

At the time of this writing, some 40 of these promoters have either been tried or else pleaded guilty, and been given prison terms.

Of the 52 persons indicted as conspirators in the swindle plot at the first meeting of the grand jury, many have yet to be arraigned.

An army of postal inspectors—as many as are usually distributed over a postal district of three or more states—sent here upon orders from Washington, is now going over the investigation of a prospective list of some 400 additional promotional enterprises.

Some gains by the oil swindle ring will be gained by picturing the countless truckloads of questionable oil promotion literature which were dumped daily into the postal inspection offices here when the probe first started.

Tons and tons of it were gathered. So much has accumulated that the inquiry division now occupies almost half a floor in one of Ft. Worth's modern skyscrapers.

All of it is lurid pictures and by honeyed word promised rivers of oil. But what really came of these promises were rivers of tears and tenebrons of oil as we shall see in later chapters of this series.

This Little World

By HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Gratitude is not dead. Bread cast upon the waters does return. For instance:

A dignified southern gentleman, now in Washington, driving up the alley to his garage the other evening found a fellow-autolite in trouble. That the man in distress was colored made no difference to our southern Samaritan. It was enough that his engine wouldn't start. So he professed his services.

Together they traced through the trouble, fixed it and got the car going. The colored driver, profusely grateful, but with a slightly apologetic, even hesitant manner, inquired: "Boss, does yo' ever take a little drink?"

"Well, I have been known to."

"Well, boss, I sure am obliged to you. I was just startin' out to make a few deliveries, and I sure would be proud if yo'd cep't a little bottle o' corn likker, wif m' compliments. An' any time yo' happens to want me—"

Gratitude Now the Samaritan's friends keep careful watch up alley in the hope of themselves spying a stalled auto with a grateful driver.

Practicing what one preaches is no where more difficult than in public life. But in Brig Gen Herbert M. Lord, director of Uncle Sam's bud get, Washington presents one man who does it.

Lord not only keeps the budget for the government, he keeps a personal one for his own domestic establishment. An outline of a proper domestic budget system, Lord says, might run about like this:

First deduct from the annual salary 10 per cent, for savings, plus an amount sufficient to cover income tax payments (You see, I can't forget that Uncle Sam simply must have it).

Divide the balance into five equal parts of food shelter, clothing, operating expenses and development. Apportion these over the year—and keep within them every week. "Operating expenses" covers such items as fuel and lighting, servants, water, repairs and furnishings.

"Development" includes church contributions, benevolences, club dues, medical bills, entertainment, etc.

To make the capital safe for Congress, Washington waits more women on its police force. They can best cope with the social situations that undermine morals in all large capitals, it is contended.

But getting men is a snap compared with landing women eligible for Washington's force. A simple test in writing, spelling, arithmetic and physics turns the trick for the male applicant.

But the woman who wishes to help police the city must show that she has—

1.—Graduated from a four-year course of a standard high school.

2.—Completed at least 14 college entrance units of study, or

3.—Graduated from a recognized school for trained nurses, requiring at least two years' hospital residence.

Besides, she must show at least two years' experience in systematic social service or educational work on in commercial work involving public contacts.

The reason for the difference, it is explained, is that the work of police women is not the straight patrol duty. It is that of the men, but is essentially one of social service, requiring special qualifications.

APPOINTMENT IS GIVEN APPROVAL

(By The Associated Press.)

MANILA, Nov. 21.—The Philippine government board of control, composed of Governor-General Leonard Wood, Manuel Quezon, president of the Senate, and Antonio Delos Alas, speaker pro tempore of the House of Representatives, has appointed Alberto Barretto to office of president of the National Coal Company, John R. Shaw, an American, and R. Agacilla, a Filipino, were chosen members of the board of directors of the company.

The National Coal Company is one of the commercial concerns controlled by the insular government. Mr. Barretto, is an official of a cement company here and prominent in business circles as are Shaw and Agacilla. The appointments are said to be the first on which Governor-General Leonard Wood and Manuel Quezon have agreed since the break in their relations last July. Quezon said regarding the appointments

DEACONS PLAY STATE COLLEGE NEXT SATURDAY

WAKE FOREST, N. C., Nov. 21.—Because of their off-color showing against Elon, the Demon Deacons were today assigned a double portion of practice by Coach Garrity in preparation for the State game in Raleigh on Saturday. Heavy offensive and defensive scrimmage through Wednesday afternoon is the program outlined for the Deacons in preparation for the game which will determine who gets second honors in North Carolina.

While feeling rather badly about the showing his team made against Elon, Coach Garrity is loud in his praise of the fighting spirit shown by the Christians. "These boys just had their dander up that day and we had to exert ourselves to get the three-point victory that we did bring home," he declared.

GENERALS SEEK CAPABLE MAN TO TAKE FREW'S JOB

LEXINGTON, Va., Nov. 21.—It was a tired squad of gridders that turned in from Wilson Field late this afternoon, after what was perhaps the most grueling workout of the present season. DeHart had his men on the field shortly after two o'clock and drove them at top speed for better than three hours. Everything in the repertoire of the Generals was run, "dummy scrimmage" was held for more than an hour, the kickers were given a thorough drill, while the forwards were sent through their paces on the charging machine. Meanwhile, the diminutive mentor of the White and Blue took no less than three substitute quarterbacks in hand and devoted a long while to them, in an effort to locate a capable successor to "Student" Frew for the Center clash. The brilliant field general of the local eleven was badly used in the South Carolina tilt and just now his return to the lineup for Saturday's clash is problematical. In fact the trainers doubt seriously if Frew will again be able to don togs this season.

With Frew out of the lineup, the punting burden will be shifted to Captain Cameron. While the pilot of the Blue and White is not new to the kicking game, seldom has he been called upon to perform in that department so long as the South Carolina boy remained in the lineup. Terry is back in uniform again, and with Tucker in shape, the squad as a whole is in perhaps better condition than at any time since the season started. With the squad scheduled to leave Lexington tomorrow afternoon, today witnessed the last big workout of the week. It is possible that a light signal drill will be held tomorrow prior to the team's departure, with another scheduled to take place Friday afternoon at Louisville.

Without a doubt, the Center clash will be the hardest of the year for the Generals, and while the local followers look for a close-contested battle, there is little real hope that the White and Blue can wrest a victory from the Praying Colonels. However, if the work of the present week nets any results, it is certain that DeHart will send the best drilled combination against the Kentuckians that has taken the field for W and L this season.

LAST FOOTBALL GAME OF SEASON HERE SATURDAY

Danville football fans will probably have their last opportunity to see a football game here Saturday when the Danville Military Institute will meet the football team from Randolph-Macon Academy, Bedford City. The game, placed these two teams about on a par, so a close and exciting game is assured. The game will be played on the D. M. I. ground and will start at 3:00 o'clock.

The Cadets have been working hard for the coming contest. The whole team has been reorganized with changes made in both the line and backfield. The offense is believed, has been strengthened by the substitution of Wilkerson and Acos as halfbacks. Both men are fast both are aggressive and both have shown remarkable development during the present season.

The Bedford lads have a strong eleven this year and should furnish sturdy opposition.

It is expected that there will be a large crowd out Saturday to see the game.

Rivals Play Hard, Escape Penalty

DETROIT, Nov. 22.—When Michigan and Ohio State football teams played through their entire battle a penalty being inflicted without a penalty being inflicted, a most unusual feat was performed. For seldom is it that a game on the gridiron is played wherein some infringement is committed.

But in the Wolverine-Buckeye clash there were no omissions, no holding, tripping, clipping or any violations of the rules whatsoever. The fact that it was a Western Conference game with two arch rivals combating speaks well for the fair, clean play displayed by both sides.

In the first half there was no time taken out for injuries. Obviously, there were no substitutions. This, coupled with the fact that no penalties were inflicted, the first two quarters run off in pretty near to scheduled time. There was real action almost every minute.

This no-penalty game may not be a new record in football. But it is at least a record.

"RED" LEONARD GETS DECISION

(By The Associated Press.)

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Nov. 21.—"Red" Leonard, of this city, won the referee's decision over Roy Moore, of St. Paul, Minnesota, in a ten round bout at Fort Monroe tonight in which the local bantamweight had practically every round. This was Leonard's first bout since losing a decision to Bob Garcia, bantam champion of the army, at the Soldiers' Home on Labor Day. Launching a speedy attack in the opening round Leonard kept Moore on the defensive three-fourths of the way. On only a few occasions did Moore show anything like the form that swept him almost to the bantamweight championship a few years ago.

Leonard's aggressiveness and speed bewildered Moore and the decision was easily earned.

THE GENTLE ART OF PLACE-KICKING IN FOOTBALL

A MOVIE-STRIP SHOWING FULLBACK TURNEY OF OHIO WESLEYAN DOING HIS STUFF.

Place-kicking may not seem to be an especially painful matter but the expression here on the face of Ted Turney, Ohio Wesleyan University captain and fullback, indicates that he takes the matter seriously.

Turney is the most feared placekicker among college football players in Ohio. His toe added the winning points for Wesleyan against Miami, Denison and the Michigan Aggies last season and he is now on to help Wesleyan retain the Ohio Conference championship won in 1922 and finish its second consecutive season without a conference defeat this year.

Turney is pictured here in a series of photographs which show the exact form he uses in making his long, accurate kicks. He is especially how both the ball-holder and kicker have their gaze fixed closely on the ball in the early stages of the kick and how the kicker's muscles are tightly tensed.

Coach George Gauthier of the Ohio Wesleyan football squad plans to use this series of action pictures in teaching future generations of Wesleyan players how to place-kick.

Winning Boxer Must Get Back

By HARRY NEWMAN

(By Chicago Tribune Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The members of the New York State Athletic Commission at their regular weekly meeting this afternoon reaffirmed and clarified the rule which requires that a boxer on scoring a knockout shall retire to the farthest corner of the ring before the officials start a count over the prostrate boxer. The rule has been on the books in New York state since the inception of the Walker Boxing Law, but never strictly enforced. Then again there haven't been many flagrant violations until the Dempsey and Firpo wrangle, which prompted the commission to demand that the rule be rigidly enforced at all times.

The commission issued copies of the rule and bulletined their latest action in the matter. The full ruling says:

"When a knockdown occurs, the timekeeper shall immediately arise and announce the seconds audibly as they elapse. The referee shall first see that the opponent retires to the farthest corner and then turning to the timekeeper shall pick up the count in unison with the timekeeper, announcing the seconds to the boxer on the floor. Should the boxer on his feet fail to stay in the corner, the referee and timekeeper shall cease counting until he so retires.

"At the tenth second, providing the round has not terminated in the meantime, the timekeeper will strike the gong twice. If a round shall naturally terminate during a knockdown, the timekeeper shall sound the gong once, thus indicating the termination of the round. As usual, at the same time announcing the second that the knockdown count ended."

Carl Duane and Frank Jerome are putting the finishing touches on their preparation for their fifteen round battle in Madison Square Garden on Friday night.

VINDICATED

Some time in the month of April of the present year the body of a still born infant was discovered in an open field where it had been thrown. Inquiry was made and it was found that I had received for burial the body of a still born infant, and despite all the explanations which I could make and in the face of my offer to produce the body I could not convince any one that I had not committed an offense which, if proved, should have not only caused me to be imprisoned and fined but should have made me an outcast among men.

After practically four trials and the unearthing of the remains which proved conclusively that I was innocent and that if my first offer to reopen the grave and prove that the infant had been buried instead of being flung into an old field, had been accepted, the matter never would have gained such wide publicity and I should have been vindicated seven months ago, instead of just a few days ago, and then only because the judge insisted that if I had buried the body it should be allowed to show that I had. The grave was opened in presence of six reputable witnesses, one a white undertaker who took from the body part of the very cloth in which the infant was buried and buried and produced it before the court after which nothing more remained to be said: the incident was closed.

I am sorry that the thing happened but I suppose 'tis all in the day's work, and as it is over and I have been shown to be absolutely innocent of any offense I shall be content to let the matter rest. I am very grateful to my many friends who so loyally stood by me and assure them that they shall always be remembered, and that at any time that I can be of use to them I hope they will not hesitate to call upon me. As to my enemies, if any there be, I can only say, let the heathen rage.

L. H. BROOKS.

The following is taken from an afternoon paper published in this city:

"UNDERTAKER WINS ON NEW EVIDENCE"

"L. H. Brooks, negro undertaker will not have to pay the fine of $250.00 imposed on him recently. The after-discovered evidence was reviewed today and following the re-opening of a grave in Oak Hill Cemetery the mortal remains of two infants alleged not to have been buried were found and identified sufficiently to warrant the setting aside of a nolle prosequi."

Type of Play the Navy Will Employ Is Yet Undecided

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Last minute lineup revisions are expected to forestall the type of play the Navy will employ against the Army when the two service elevens meet in the twenty sixth game of their brawling series at the Polo Grounds next Saturday.

The middle lineup has rival candidates for several positions, with one group functioning better on offense and another which shines in defensive play. Taylor and Brown, ends, and Baehner, fullback, are included in the former group, and Caldwell and Burnett, ends, and Shapley, fullback, are included in the latter.

Because the Cadets show a superior offensive record, many students of football assert Navy's best plan of action will be that of defense play. Note Dams proved the only team able to entirely check Army's offense. Scores ranging from the ten points tallied against Yale to the 73 scored on Lebanon Valley testify to the strength and resourcefulness of the Cadet attack.

Largely on this offensive strength the Cadets rule favorite in Saturday's game and show a heavier, huskier, combination than the Navy as well as a punter of superior ability. Wood, Army kicking ace, has been consistently good this season.

Army rosters, however, are much concerned over reports that Smythe, star quarterback, and most brilliant broken-field runner on the West Point eleven, may be unable to play. Smythe's ability to zigzag through scattered opposition has won many points for the Cadets this season. With Wood he comprises a dual threat which has figured prominently in baffling rival elevens.

BETTING ODDS

ON TWO GAMES

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—A lengthening of betting odds on Army and Yale in their respective gridiron clashes next Saturday with the Navy and Harvard were reached today in Wall Street.

Several wagers were made at 3 to 2 that the Cadets would conquer their service rivals as compared with a general quotation of six to five yesterday. One bet of $3,000 to $1,000 that Yale would beat the Crimson was among a number indicating a lengthening of the odds in this traditional contest.

STAMP OUT EVIL.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The government is in a position with the result of conviction of Dr. Frederick
A. Cook and others in Fort Smith today, to stamp out the threatened epidemic of mail fraud and wild-cat stock promotion schemes. Assistant Attorney General Crim declared tonight upon his return from a conference with United States attorneys at Fort Worth.

Mr. Crim asserted that active prosecution of the mail fraud cases at Fort Worth, now numbering more than four hundred, will be a policy of the government. He predicted numerous pleas of guilty in those cases, adding that the department of justice and the postoffice department acting jointly had developed a machine for the prosecution of the cases that contemplates the release of none.

"It will be recalled," Mr. Crim said,
"that there was an epidemic of mail-
road rebating during the Roosevelt administration. The government got behind the prosecution of them and finished that evil. The same evil is fraudulent promotion schemes and I hope to see the same treatment accorded them that was given the rebating railroads."

"SUE DEAR" MONDAY.

Excellent Voices in Musical Comedy
Coming to The Majestic.

Miss Eleanor Bennett, singing the title role in "Sue Dear," which will be presented at the Majestic Theatre on November 26th, is one of the few sopranos whose voice was not discovered
while she was singing at a convent.
The reason for this probably lies in the fact that Miss Bennett never studied at a convent. Credit for the discovery of her voice goes to Mme.
Lydia Lipkowska, former prima donna of the Boston Grand Opera Company, and for the development of it to Miss Henrietta Haswell, the eminent Boston vocal teacher.

Most stage stars have some form of diversion to amuse them when they are not playing. Some ride, others play tennis, baseball, golf or similar games. A few have taken up millinery, dress-making or cooking. To

Big Four to Take

THE PLACE OF THE

3 BIG LEADERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Conclusions of negotiations for resumption of football relations between Dartmouth and Yale was viewed tonight in athletic circles as proof of recent forecasts that plans are well underway for the organization of a "big four" in collegiate athletic ranks to replace the present "big four" with the Green and the addition to the Harvard-Princeton-Yale triangle.

So far as football is concerned, the only link needed to complete the new chain is for Princeton and Dartmouth to resume relations, as the Green already is in Hare's schedule. This cannot take place, however, in all likelihood until 1925.

ELINOR BENNETT.

Prima Donna with "SUE DEAR," the season's musical comedy hit, at the Majestic for one performance on Monday, Nov. 26th.

Miss Eleanor Bennett, however, of "Sue Dear," has the record for form of diversion which no other actress has ever undertaken.

In her off hours, Miss Bennett devotes her time to writing articles on business conditions. These articles are not written for the amusement of her friends, either, as a large number of them have been published in "The Commercial Digest," "Sales" and other national business papers. While preferring no preference in the line of articles which she writes, Miss Bennett admits that she finds it easier to discuss wheat, corn and cattle than finance, textiles, metals or the other kindred subjects.

Prices 50c to $2.50. Seat sale open today.

TRINITY BUSY

AT PRACTICE

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 21.—The Trinity Cross-Country squad is bus-ying in a busy week in preparation for their meet with Washington and Lee and the University of North Carolina which comes off November 24.
This meet will be the most pretentious that Trinity has yet attempted for the team must run against two of the strongest teams in the South.
The great Cross-Country team from Washington and Lee has promised to appear, which means that fans who love great runners will see five of the best in the South in action.

In a meet two weeks ago against the University of Maryland before the first Maryland runner have into sight.
The University of North Carolina's team still contains a couple of Randolph, which means that the methodists will have to step to make a credible showing. The University team is claimed to be the best in all times. State College has sent no word to the effect that her team will participate in the meet, but it can be assured that State has a strong team.
Trinity has been weakened this year. From last year's snappy aggregation but two men are back—Mabry
and P. L. Hatcher. These two veterans are slowly rounding into shape and, reinforced by the four men of good promise, Trinity will be able to make a fair showing. P. G. Bolch,
a junior is captain elect of the Cross-Country team, and has been training
the men for a majority of the work-outs. Coach Eubank is now able to devote a little attention to the squad and the improvement is becoming evident.

MIDDIES LEAVE

FOR NEW YORK

(By The Associated Press.)
ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 21.—The Annapolis Middles made a long adieu to Farragut Field today. They had finished their final work-outs under home surroundings. Tomorrow afternoon they will "set sail" for New York, ready for the annual engagement with their rivals, the West Point Cadets to be staged on the Polo Grounds Saturday afternoon.
According to the coaches, some of the players due to injuries, are not in the physical trim that it was hoped they would be.

Laundering Lingerie De Luxe.

Is a fine art and we are past masters at it. It is no easy matter to wash and iron those delicate, fluffy, lace things which are so dear to the heart of woman-kind. But we do it to the woman's satisfaction, as is evidenced by the large volume of this class of work we have. So much easier to have us do it than do it at home.

MORNING STOCK LETTER

Thomson & McKinnon
NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—I am going to give you a simple facts this morning and all I ask is that you give it serious thought.

Pan Pete "B" paying $8 a share, at the equivalent of 13 and 1-2 per cent. at sixty, ten and three quarters per cent. at 75 and even at 80 would not ten per cent on the investment. You know, of course, that the peak of production has been passed. The trend in the industry has definitely turned for the better. Therefore, how long will the stock remain at this price?

Union Pacific at 135 paying $10 nets approximately 7 1-2 per cent. and at 145 would be approximately 7 per cent. You have, of course, noticed the marvelous statement of the company? The biggest business in October with the exception of October of 1929. In ten months the net shows an increase of six million dollars over the preceding year. How long will investors permit this opportunity to remain?

The iron age yesterday reported one of the largest buying movements of pig iron in many months. Prices have been advanced from 50 cents to $1 a ton. This is naturally a forerunner of bigger business to come and bigger tonnage for the steel corporations.

With money in plentiful supply at present rates, how long do you suppose these stocks—and the many other good ones—are going to remain at this level? To me it looks like a great opportunity.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 22.—A more favorable opinion of European conditions and the still Liverpool market put prices higher by 11 to 15 points in the first half hour of trading in cotton here today. January rose to 34.55. The usual realizing came from the long side but the market did not meet an over supply of contracts.

NEW YORK COTTON.

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—There was a renewal of yesterday's buying movement at the opening of the cotton market today which had the encouragement of relatively firm Liverpool cables. First prices were live to 18 points higher with December selling up to 35.75, making a new high record for the season. Late months sold up to about the highest points of yesterday, the advance met a great deal of realizing, while there also appeared to be selling here against the increased spot sales reported in southern markets yesterday. This caused reactions of some 10 or 15 points during the early trading and gave the market rather an unsettled appearance. Liverpool reports the advance there was due to spinners calling and a slightly better spot demand.

MORNING GRAIN LETTER.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Some of the steadiness in wheat prices is a restriction of the strength shown in cotton and stocks and comes from the absence of selling pressure. It should not be taken as promising any advance for the moment for the reason that the demand for cash wheat does not improve. Steadily increasing supplies are the key to the ultimate course of prices. Sales on the rallies are logically indicated.

SOMEWHAT FAVORABLE.

The prohibition officers had come to the door of Mose Jackson's house on the quest of an illicit still. The door was opened by Mose's youngest boy, a pickaninny about 7 years of age.

"We're prohibition officers, son," said one of the men, "and we've come to search your father's house for liquor."

"You won't find no likah heah," boss," said the boy. "Why, we jes' put the mash to soak las' night!"

Everybody.

Cook Is Severely Rebuked As He Gets 14 Years for Fraud

Noted Arctic Explorer Goes to Jail With Stinging Denunciation by Judge Ringing in His Ears—Is Told His Oil Stock Deals Were Rotten and Is Likened to Ananias—Others Convicted.

(By The Associated Press.)
FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 22.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook who first gained fame by his denied claims of discovery of the North Pole, passed a cell in the Tarrant county jail here today under sentence of fourteen years and nine months in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas, and a fine of $12,000 and with what was said to have been the most stinging denunciation ever heard in a Texas courtroom ringing in his ears.

In jail with Dr. Cook are thirteen of his co-defendants found guilty late yesterday of using the mail to defraud in promoting the Petroleum Producers Association, Inc. S. E. Cox, one of the most colorful oil promoters Texas has known and who achieved some measure of fame through his interest in aeronautics, Cox was sentenced to eight years in the penitentiary and fined $8,000.

Cox, like Dr. Cook, encountered a tongue-lashing by John M. Killitt, federal district judge. As stinging as it was it was mild in comparison with the language directed at the Arctic explorer who turned oil promoter and tried to amalgamate many non-going small companies.

"Cox, you have carried your pitcher to the well once too often," said the court. "You may justify the despicable business you are in but decent people never will."

With what was termed by hearers a well defined sneer in the court's voice, "so you can say nothing," was hurled at the detected figure which stood in compliance with Judge Killitt's demand: "Stand up, Cook, the usual remark to prisoners about to be sentenced and also an invitation to them to give reasons why sentence should not be imposed."

"You have come to the point where your peculiar personality fails you," Judge Killitt accused, as Dr. Cook stood leaning against the clerk's desk, his eyes sighted on the floor.

Robbing of widows and orphans, the aged and the destitute, were charges against the downcast explorer-promoter.

"Cook, have you no decency at all? are you not haunted at night by these pitiable figures you have robbed?"

how can you sleep?" continued the judge.

"The twentieth century should be proud of Dr. Cook."

"History gave us Ananias and Sapphira. They are forgotten. But we still have Dr. Cook."

"Cook, this deal of yours is so damnably rotten that it seems to me that your attorneys must have been forced to hold their handkerchiefs to their noses to have represented you. It stinks so high heaven that the way I feel about you I wish I were not so circumscribed. You should not be allowed to run at large at all."

"I know you have your ill-gotten gains put away. Your counsel came to me and asked what your bond would be. I set it too low. They said you could not make it, but it is asher waste of sense to say you can't. They must be under the spell of your peculiar personality."

If Dr. Cook appeals his case he must arrange bond of $75,000, perhaps the largest ever named in Texas. Even if he makes the bond he must remain in jail until the record of the trial is perfected and approved by Judge Killitt, which would require several weeks.

Seven of those named in the indictment with Dr. Cook, pleaded guilty. With two exceptions they were fined $5,000 each. H. P. Stephens was fined $1,000 and sent to jail for ninety days. G. H. Currier did not appear in the courtroom. All the others were sentenced to from one year and one day to seven years with fines added to the various prison terms.

MAINTAIN GOOD TOBACCO PRICE

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 21.—An average of $24.22 per hundred pounds was maintained by Durham auction tobacco market during the last week, according to figures released today by T. W. Scott, secretary tobacco board of trade. The amount sold was $83,496 pounds and the total selling price was $206,747.01 it is reported.

General satisfaction with the prices being received is being expressed by farmers. It is expected that the amount of tobacco offered here will increase materially from now until Christmas since the prices are good and the cold weather enables farmers to handle the weed without danger of its damaging.

Annual Report On Army Air Service

Patrick Makes Statement Admitting 'Inadequacies' of Service at Present Time.

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—A frank statement of the "inadequacies" of the Army Air Service from a standpoint of personnel, finance, equipment and other essential factors was made today by Major General Mason Patrick, chief of the Army's aviation forces, in his annual report to Secretary Weeks.

"The peace organization of the Air Service," General Patrick said, "now bears no relation to the war requirements and affords little opportunity upon which war requirements of either personnel or material can be built."

He added that the 1931 officers allowed the Service as a result of the reduction of army commissioned personnel to 12,000 are "far short of requirements" and conditions demand "a substantial" increase in both enlisted and commissioned personnel.

"As a result of these actions," he said, "the Air Service is operating on a basis which does not permit the fulfillment of its mission." General Patrick declared "Any further reduction will result in greater deficiencies and only a substantial increase can enable it to meet its mission."

He made no mention of the reduced number of officers were available or of sufficient civilians might be employed the difficulties would not be so perplexing, but with continued reduction of army personnel, efficient operation becomes an impossibility.

General Patrick conceded the impossibility of developing a combat-type aircraft system because of existing conditions in the country. It has been unable, he reported, to establish new flying fields or retain old ones established during the war, a way that would "stimulate" civilian personnel as "helpful" in the strategic requirements of national defense.

"In this connection," he reported, "attention must be again directed to the deplorable conditions which exist at all air service stations. With the exception of a few few isolated permanent buildings the entire air service outfit was initiated during the war, pushed to hasty conclusion and designed to last from two to four years. These accommodations have now been in continued use since 1917 and while the maintenance costs mount higher and higher with each succeeding year the living conditions have become more and more unsatisfactory. Langley Field (Va.) is the only air service station with an appreciable amount of permanent construction and even Langley has no barracks for enlisted men except the one building which Congress recently authorized. A complete reconstruction program is imperative and nothing short of immediate and general relief can be relied upon to meet the situation.

One conclusion emphasized by General Patrick is that a program be adopted for the proper equipment of the air service.

"It is considered that the annual appropriations for the support of the air service since the world war have been inadequate," the report said. "In view of the rapid development of aviation the requirements of continued engineering and research work constitute an imperative need while the shortage of aircraft necessitated by the lack of funds for replacement will shortly present an extremely critical situation. It is therefore urgently recommended that a program be adopted and adhered to until this service is properly equipped and on an efficient operating basis."

Emphasis must be placed on the critical condition which exists with regard to major items of equipment, viz. airplanes, airships and balloons. The most serious training type, now on hand, were produced during the war, are rapidly deteriorating and even when completely reconditioned, have but a very short life. Furthermore, 80 per cent. of the airplanes are of an obsolete training type, unsuitable for combat purposes. It is absolutely essential that the purchase of new aircraft to replace that produced during the war and to offset the constant increasing shrinkage, be undertaken immediately. Since it requires about 18 months to secure delivery after a contract has been executed, it is apparent that no relief from the present situation can be expected before 1935. Appropriations now being made for the purchase of new aircraft are insufficient to meet the requirements of even the present inadequate present establishment of the air service."

The aeronautical industry of the United States, the report added, is found lacking and "unless such an industry can be built up in time of peace the wartime procurement program must fall far short of its goal. The solution of this problem lies in the development of a commercial aviation through the timely enactment of suitable legislation and in the judicious expenditure of such funds as may be appropriated for the support of government aeronautical activities."

NEW YORK STOCKS.

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Stock prices continued their movement to higher ground at the opening of today's market in response to favorable foreign and domestic news developments. Tidewater oil jumped 3 points but most of the other initial gains were of a fractional nature with the demand spread over all sections of the list.

Tidewater Oil extended its gain to four points and Big Four advanced one to 112, a new high level, while gains of a point or more were recorded by the Pan-American, Iron, Products and many others.

There were a few weak spots, notably Calumet and Arizona and General Electric. Foreign exchanges opened slightly lower.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Cotton advanced yesterday under an enormous business by the speculative fraternity. Bulls are very confident and predicting forty cent. cotton. At present the bull fever is running very high and has to run its course. Indications are that spinners are following a hand to mouth policy and speculators buying at this level should be prepared for violent fluctuations.

The Receiver Off the Hook

When a telephone user fails to replace the receiver on the hook a serious interruption to the service results. In such cases incoming calls cannot be completed, and the operator is compelled to report the line "out of order."

On party lines, if the receiver is not replaced at any one of the stations, not only is that telephone affected, but none of the other telephones on the line can either make or receive calls. Thus an entire line is put out of service, until the receiver of one telephone is replaced.

Sometimes the receiver is accidentally permitted to rest upon a book, or some object which prevents the hook from coming all the way down. When this occurs it produces the same effect as if the receiver were not replaced.

In cases of this sort a repair man must be sent to inspect the telephone. Some little time must therefore elapse before the receiver is replaced, and during this interval calls of great importance may be lost to the subscriber.
